TODAY'S NEWS TODAY

WALL STREET STOCKS BREAK SHARPLY IN A LATE WAVE OF SELLING

Reaction Generally Regarded by Wall Street as a Natural Consequence of the Rapid Recovery.

PRESSURE OF SHORT SELLING

Reaction Embraces Practically All Groups With Utilities and Electrical Manufacturers Hardest Hit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—After floundering around without getting anywhere all the week, the stock market fell into a sharp decline under a renewed outburst of selling for both accounts in the last hour of trading today.

The market was comparatively dull until the last hour, when blocks of 5000 shares or more began to appear on the tape, and prices gave way rapidly. The tickers for more than half an hour after the close. Total sales ran close to 4,500,000 shares.

The day's news was of a rather disappointing character, but contained no particularly startling developments. Observers were inclined to attribute the renewed decline resulting from a too rapid recovery, and powerful bearish elements.

Loans Up $33,000,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending Dec. 11 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board after the close of market at $3,425,000,000, representing an increase of $33,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Analysis of the report shows loans for own accounts were $306,000,000, increase $14,000,000; loans for account of out-of-town banks, $110,000,000, increase $30,000,000; loans for account of others, $1,999,000,000, increase $12,000,000.

Money rates were unchanged. Call money held steady at 4 1/2 per cent all day, and time money was quoted at 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate of 4 1/2 per cent, which is 1/2 per cent below the Bank of England discount rate, which was dropped earlier in the day from 5 to 4 per cent.

The reaction embraced practically all groups of stocks, with the utilities and electrical manufacturers issues among the hardest hit. Westinghouse Electric dropped a net decline of 16 1/2 points to 122 1/2, and United States Steel dropped 10 1/2 to 166 1/2. Other quotations and net declines of some of the other recent leaders were: Johns Manville 12 1/2; Radio 40 1/2; off 8 1/2; Consolidated Gas 84 1/2, off 7 1/2; American Power & Light 8 1/2, off 10; Sears-Roebuck 9 1/2, off 5; Union Carbide 7 1/2, off 6 1/2; and Union Pacific 21 3/4, off 3 1/4.

Bear Tip Out.

Late selling probably was influenced by the publication of a statement of Roger Babson that the recent advance in prices was only a rally in a major "bear" market.

Wall Street heard reports as early as yesterday that "bear" operators were planning an assault on the market today, presumably in anticipation of a disappointing weekly Federal Reserve brokers' statement. Up until the last hour, however, short selling made little headway, when United States Steel common was offered in large blocks at declining prices, the market became unsettled.

Commodity markets were quiet. Cotton closed off a few cents a bale. Wheat advanced 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Corn also advanced a cent or more a bushel.

Except for the decline in sterling in response to the lower discount rate in London, there were no features of interest in the foreign exchange market, although the European rates showed nominal recessions.

Marconi Talks From London On Anniversary of Radio

Yesterday's high 69 (1 p. m.); low 51 (5 a. m.).

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Mostly fair tonight and tomorrow; colder, but the lowest temperature will be above freezing.

The first wireless signal ever sent across the Atlantic was repeated from London to the United States by Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio, today on the twenty-eighth anniversary of his achievement.

For 15 minutes the voice of Marconi came in over KSD (the Post-Dispatch) and nearly 50 other American stations as clearly as that of the announcer in New York. He told of the world's skepticism, his own hopes and fears, the crudity of his instruments and his expectations of still further marvels in wireless.

"You will have to use your imaginations for its possibilities," he said.

First Signal Three Dots.

In 1891 the signal that told Marconi, lonely on a wind-swept plateau in Newfoundland, that transatlantic wireless was a fact, was the three dots of the letter "S." Words, complicating the signal with dashes, he feared, would throw too great a strain upon his apparatus.

Today the only interference was a faint machine-gun sputter. Experts judged it was another station using machine transmission to radio 200 words a minute.

Three years ago, in an interview on this anniversary, Marconi could say only that television was a possibility. Today he said: "The day fast approaches when television will be a commonplace."

Broadcast to Four Continents.

Marconi and the assistants in his feat of 28 years ago waited today in the studio of the British Broadcasting Corporation in London. It was 6:45 p. m.—12:45 a. m. in St. Louis. Marconi stepped to the microphone.

His words went by telephone to Chelmsford and were broadcast at 28 meters to four continents. They were picked up by RCA experimental station at Riverdale, N. Y., and transmitted by telephone to nearly 50 stations on both the Red and Blue networks of the National Broadcasting Co.

Thousands heard the three purring dots of the epoch-making "S" sent by the hand of Marconi. Twenty-eight years ago it was heard only by Marconi and his assistants in a deserted barracks on the Newfoundland coast.

He realized, as he told today, that the ultimate proof of his invention would be a transatlantic demonstration. Antennae at Chelmsford and Cape Cod. Twice accidents destroyed them.

Perhaps kites or balloons would carry suitable aerials, so the long wait for rebuilding the masts was avoided. So on Nov. 26, 1901, he set sail from Liverpool.

Getting the First Message.

On Dec. 6 he landed, and on Monday, Dec. 9, selected Signal Hill for his experiments.

"The weather was very bad and very cold," he said. "On Tuesday, Dec. 10, we sent up a kite with 600 feet of aerial wire. On Wednesday we sent up a balloon, but it broke away and disappeared in the mist. 'I had arranged with my assistants in Cornwall to send the signals for the letter 'S' at a certain hour."

"On Dec. 12, in spite of a raging sale, we succeeded in sending up a kite with 400 feet of wire. I was at the point of putting the correctness of my beliefs to the test."

"Suddenly at about 12:30 I heard a signal. It seemed to be the letter 'S.' I called to my assistant for confirmation. He had heard the same signal."

"On the following day we heard the signals again. They were somewhat fainter, but I knew then that my faith in wireless was justified. Transmission of radio waves 1700 miles had been successful, despite the curvature of the earth, which many had thought would be an insuperable obstacle."

The famous inventor related that his work there was abandoned when a cable company informed him that it had exclusive rights for transatlantic communication from Newfoundland, and that he was violating those rights and would be prosecuted unless he desisted.

"I was astonished," he related, "but cheered by this great confidence in my work. It assured me that one of the great cable companies not only believed in the possibility of wireless communication, but already feared its competition."

R. C. A. WANTS U. S. TO GIVE MONOPOLY AND LET IT ALONE

David Sarnoff, Vice-President, Asks for All the Wave Lengths Company Can Use.

SENATORS AMAZED AT HIS "MODESTY"

Radio Executive Argues That Firm Is Ablest—Prefers Public Ownership to Private Competition.

By PAUL V. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—David Sarnoff, executive vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, today told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee what his company wants from the Government. And he told it with all the assurance of a man representing a modest client.

The Radio Corporation wants a monopoly in the field of radio communication, both external and internal, in order to maintain the wave lengths it can use. If any are left over, it is perfectly willing, Sarnoff explained, for the Radio Corporation to divide them "among John Smith and Bill Jones."

He wants the repeal of that section of the present radio act which would prevent it from selling its external communication circuits to the public.

It wants the repeal of those sections of the present act which interfere with the development of its monopoly in the manufacturing field. And finally, it wants an end to the continuous investigations by the Federal Trade Commission and the committee.

Some members of the committee seemed to gasp as Sarnoff related the list of his company's requirements, although Senator Hawes of Missouri asked a few questions indicating that he thought they were not unreasonable, and might even rebound to the public welfare if granted.

Sarnoff admitted, in reply to the less friendly questions of Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, that what the Radio Corporation wants is, substantially, that the Government shall turn over to it the lion's share of the ether and then allow it to do as it pleases, under Government regulation of doubtful efficiency. He intimated that unless such freedom is granted the Radio Corporation may not be able to cooperate in the Hoover "prosperity drive" as fully as it might otherwise.

He said:

"At a time when our Government is being attacked from every side for its failure to develop private enterprise, when large capital investment requires encouragement and security, and when a new art is developing, the Government is open road for radio development would help to maintain public confidence in the radio industry."

Radio Act Straitjacket.

"Onerous legislation that would place the radio art in a straitjacket, that would hamper the activities with which it has a natural kinship, and restrict its service possibilities, would retard the advance of the radio industry at the most vital moment of its development and defeat the very purpose which your committee is trying to accomplish."

Thus, while he favored the establishment of a Federal Communications Commission, he proposed in the Commerce bill that it would not be equipped with powers that might infringe on the ambitions of the Radio Corporation, and he hoped, moreover, that Congress would adopt a policy of liberality which the proposed commission would be required to pursue.

Hawes' Comparison.

Hawes likened the existence of competing cable and radio systems to the existence of competing telephone systems in a city although obviously, one may send or receive through either cable or radio without subscribing to them or installing their facilities in the house.

Senator Wheeler remarked that the tendency in all forms of public service was toward monopoly and that in his opinion Government regulation had not been satisfactory. He asked if the inevitable end of monopoly was not Government ownership. Sarnoff said he did not believe it would be as efficient.

BLAMES LENIENCE FOR CONVICT RIOT IN AUBURN PRISON

Acting Head of Penitentiary Also Holds Mutual Welfare League Responsible for Disorder.

9 KILLED IN SECOND MUTINY OF YEAR

Troops Leave After Quelling Outbreak With Gas Bombs—Injured Warden Still Off Duty.

By the Associated Press.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Quiet had returned to Auburn State prison where yesterday the walls echoed with the shots of machine guns and pistols. The tear gas had cleared the corridors and an armed peace had followed the mutiny which lasted the greater part of yesterday.

George A. Sullivan, sergeant of the prison guard, who is acting warden while Jennings is incapacitated, today said prison leniency and the Mutual Welfare League were responsible for yesterday's outbreak.

The acting warden amplified his statement regarding leniency by explaining that he felt the convicts had been given too much liberty and had received too much "coddling."

The bodies of eight convicts lay in local undertaker's rooms, the eighth having been shot by State Troopers who broke the back of the prison revolt and freed Warden Edgar S. Jennings and seven prison guards from the mutineers.

Rioters in Punishment Cells.

In the punishment cells of the prison a few rioters today were held to await trial for murder of Principal Keeper George A. Durnford.

State Troopers from the Batavia Barracks and National Guardsmen from Syracuse and Geneva were withdrawn this morning, leaving behind, however, sufficient of their number to aid the prison guards in restoring the routine of the convict discipline.

The wounded guards and convicts were reported from the prison hospital to be in a serious condition, with little hope for recovery for some of them at least.

Yesterday's mutiny began when 20 long-term men thrust aside the guards who were taking them to the yard for their hour of recreation, and tried to escape. Most of them participated in the mutiny at this prison last July 15.

Two Convicts Killed at Gates.

Two convicts were killed as they raced for the gates. Six more were held out from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and were driven, tier by tier, up the steep steps of the old south cell block and shot down when they could retreat no further. Not a man escaped from prison, which was surrounded by National Guardsmen, State troopers and local police.

George Durnford was mortally wounded when he battled his way into the middle of the group of mutineers who had captured his superior, Warden Jennings, who shouted at him to go back out of danger. Durnford died in the prison hospital. Atkins is in a serious condition at the Auburn City Hospital with a bullet wound in his back.

The revolt was led by Alex Tuckolker, long-term convict from Buffalo, and Steve Pawlak, who has twice been sentenced to life terms.

It was Tuckolker who acted as spokesman. His hoarse voice sounded from behind the barricades demanding safe conduct to the street and automobiles in which to escape. Nobody paid any attention to him, except to open the prison gates and invite him ironically to walk out. He and Pawlak were shot down when they scurried about the upper cell tier looking for a way of escape.

How Six Were Killed.

With Pawlak and Tuckolker died four other men, all long-time convicts. They were: Stefan Spornick, Julius Stefanek, James Blum and Ernest Farnest, Henry Sullivan and Perry Johnson, also serving long sentences, were killed as they ran to the gates earlier in the fight.

Warden Jennings had been in the hospital since last week.

LONDON BANK RATE CUT

Reduction to Five Per Cent Due to Gold Inflow.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The bank rate today was reduced from five and one-half to five per cent.

The reduction of half a per cent in the bank rate was caused by improvement in the monetary situation brought about mainly by the inflow of gold and the sharp appreciation of the sterling exchange on New York, which it is thought will be followed by an early movement of gold from the United States to this country.

SUGAR LOBBY TRIED TO USE INFLUENCE ON HOOVER

H. C. Lakin Says Cuba Co. Hired Attorney Shattuck Because of His Acquaintance With Executive.

CUBAN PRESIDENT WROTE LOBBYIST

Witness Warned He Risked Prison by Trying to Rouse Latin America to Oppose U. S. Legislation.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—From letters taken from the files of the Cuba Co., which was interested in a low tariff on sugar, the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee learned today how H. C. Lakin, president, "sold" Edwin P. Shattuck's friendship with President Hoover. Shattuck was attorney for the Cuba Co.

In the letters offered today, written to Cuban officials and American business men, Lakin emphasized that Shattuck enjoyed "special connections" which made him valuable to producers of Cuban sugar. Lakin admitted that these special connections referred to Shattuck's relations with the President.

Shattuck was counsel for the Federal Sugar Equalization Board, when President Hoover was Food Administrator and later was counsel for the American Relief Administration, an organization of Hoover relief workers.

The letters also disclosed that Lakin made direct reports to President Machado of Cuba and received from Machado commendation for the work that he and Shattuck were doing for a lower tariff on Cuban sugar.

Machado's Letter.

A statement in a letter by President Machado of Cuba which had justification for "immediate increases" in the sugar tariff could be "found only in very grave purposes of international scope obligating a powerful republic to annihilate its small neighbor" was read into the record.

The statement, made in a letter to Lakin, continued that this purpose could be explained only after there had been disloyalty or offense of some consequence. It could not exist, the letter said, as long as there was "real affection, sincere adherence, full co-operation and the desire to show at all times and in all cases the extreme and profound gratefulness which the Cuban people feel toward the American nation."

Machado said that any substantial increase in the duty on Cuban sugar would result in economic ruin for Cuba and would place the counter in "the same condition in which it was when the American nation helped us to obtain freedom."

Lakin was not questioned concerning the letter. He is due, however, to appear before the committee again tomorrow.

Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana read to Lakin the Logan act prohibiting unauthorized intercourse between private American citizens and foreign governments, and demanded to know whether he had ever heard of such a law. Lakin replied that he had not. Walsh did not indicate whether he intended to ask for prosecution of Lakin under this act.

The Logan act provides a $5000 fine and a 5-year prison term for any American citizen who carries on correspondence with a foreign government to "defeat the measures of the Government of the United States."

Later Walsh read a confidential letter in which Lakin said he knew Secretary of State Stimson intimately, that Stimson's wife was a cousin of his wife, and that he expected to have a talk with Stimson on Cuban sugar.

"I think this letter should be treated confidentially by both of us," wrote Lakin.

"Did you have this confidential talk with Secretary Stimson?" asked Walsh. "I never even tried to see him."

Counted on Stimson.

The letter, which was written in February, to Col. J. M. Tarala of Cuba, follows:

"I have raised a fund of over $5,000 to conduct the fight. Some of the money will be used for publicity and some for employing people, who have a certain amount of influence in Washington. Our chief reliance will be on Mr. Stimson."

HOUSE VOTES SETTLEMENT OF FRENCH WAR DEBT TO U. S.

Sends to Senate Hawley Bill Settling Debt Terms on Which It Is to Be Paid.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The House today passed and sent to the Senate the Hawley bill providing for settlement of the war debt of France to the United States.

The agreement, which was approved last session by the House, but not acted on by the Senate, calls for payment by France of $4,025,000,000 over 62 years. The roll call vote was 239 to 100.

The vote came after three hours of debate, during which proponents of the plan negotiated by Secretary Mellon and former Ambassador Berenger said it represented the largest payment which could be expected of France.

Opponents contended that less than 50 per cent of the obligation would be made under the agreement and that France was making good on the expenditures for armaments which should be applied on its debts.

LANGLEY MEDAL AWARDED BYRD AND LATE C. M. MANLY

South Pole Flight and Plane Inventions Recognized by Smithsonian Institute.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and the late Charles M. Manly today were awarded the Langley medal for aeronautical achievement by the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Byrd received the award for his use of the airplane in exploration of the South Polar area.

Manly was inventor of one of the first successful motor-driven aircraft. He also had contributed in many ways to improvement of aviation.

Charles A. Lindbergh is one of the holders of the medal, one of the highest awards an aviator can receive.

ALBERT N. GENEHR'S ESTATE IS VALUED AT $1,374,041

A check for $22,554, in payment of the State inheritance tax on the estate of Albert N. Gehenr was forwarded to Jefferson City today by the Mississippi Valley Merchants State Trust Co. and Mrs. Helen B. Gehenr, as executors of the estate.

The tax is based on a net value of $1,374,041 for the estate.

Gehenr, a real estate dealer, died last Feb. 26, and left the bulk of his estate to his widow, whom he named as co-executor. When the Federal inheritance tax is computed the State may secure about $20,000 additional under a law which permits it to collect a tax up to 10 per cent of the Federal tax.

Any further sum paid the State will be deducted from the Federal tax.

CAULFIELD THINKS SURVEY PROGRAM TOO BIG FOR STATE

Accordingly, He Will Select Portions of $208,000,000 Plan He Finds Are Most Needed.

NOT LIKELY TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION

Regards Data on Schools and Institutions Valuable Guide Whenever State Can Spare Funds.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12.—Though Gov. Caulfield has withheld official announcement of the action he will take on the State Survey Commission's recommendations for the expenditure of $208,000,000 in a 12-year period on the improvement of State institutions and the public school system, it has become known in Jefferson City that he is not disposed to undertake a program on such a colossal scale. It is virtually certain he will not ask legislation to provide an annual increase of anything like the $16,500,000 in the State revenues recommended by the commission.

The indications are that the Governor will not convene the Legislature in extraordinary session in January or February, as he at one time contemplated, to take up the survey commission report, but that instead he will wait for the next regular session in January, 1931, and in his regular biennial message at that time outline that part of the program which he thinks of urgent need.

Does Not Discount Work. There is no disposition in administration circles to discount the value of the work by the commission. On the contrary, the Governor on several occasions has expressed appreciation of the exhaustive manner in which the members would make all the institutions and the school system.

But it is said the Governor looks upon the recommendations as a program to guide procedure when the State's finances are in such condition that the funds can be spared, and not as a program to be provided for by one Legislature. It is known that the Governor looks upon most of the recommendations for the eleemosynary and penal institutions as a statement of urgent needs, and that some revision of the public school laws to provide additional funds should be one of the first matters considered.

However, it does not appear likely the Governor will accept the survey plan on the school system. In fact, informed opinion here is that the school program will be changed materially by the time the Governor finishes with it.

What Survey Provided. Accepting the views of the State Teachers' Association, the Survey Commission suggested that provision be made for $144,000,000 additional State aid for public schools over a period of 12 years, the intention being to bring every school in the State up to a minimum State standard, the districts then being permitted to tax themselves an additional amount to provide for a higher standard if they desired.

Under this plan it was proposed that the local school tax be placed at 20 cents on the $100 valuation, and that enough money be provided by the State to give each district a sufficient amount to enable it to spend annually $500 a year for each teacher unit of 22 pupils in elementary schools, and $1200 for each teacher unit of 24 pupils in high schools.

While, as has been pointed out, the Governor has not authorized any statement of his views, and, in fact, it is not likely that he has formed a fixed opinion which cannot be changed, it is known that "strong protests have been made to him against the plan of the teachers."

Would Relieve Wealthy. Objections which have been made before him are that under this plan taxpayers of many wealthy districts virtually would be relieved of school taxes, and their schools would be supported by the State, and that the result in the poorer districts might be that no attempt would be made to obtain additional local money to bring the schools above the minimum standard.

The Governor's attention has been called to a growing opinion that State aid should not go to

J. H. Rogers, 79, Inventor Of Many Radio Devices, Dies

From Ground Loop in Well, He Developed Way to Listen in on German Submarines During War.

J. HARRIS ROGERS

local schools until they had exhausted their tax-paying abilities. In many of the richer counties a 65-cent tax, the present maximum in many districts, would provide more money than would be needed for schools of the highest standard, and under such a local tax no State aid would be needed. On the other hand, a 65-cent rate in many of the poorer counties would fall far short of providing enough for even the poorest sort of schools, and State aid would be needed.

In handling the school question, the Governor will have to decide a question of State policy, whether the State as a whole is to be taxed to support the schools without regard to the ability of the local communities to maintain their own schools, or whether it shall be the policy that the State will aid only when the local community has taxed itself and failed to provide the needed school funds.

If the policy should be that aid will be given only to districts unable to support themselves, the amount of State funds required probably would be considerably less than one-half the $144,000,000 which would be needed under the survey commission plan.

$18,915,000 for Education. The recommendations for capital expenditures, as they came from the commission, were $18,915,000 for educational institutions, including the State university and the five teachers' colleges; $11,175,000 for eleemosynary institutions, and $4,512,000 for penal institutions. There also was an item of $14,788,700 of additional support for educational institutions over a 12-year period, and $18,277,000 for additional support of eleemosynary institutions in a like period.

The Governor was quoted by Chairman Rogers of the commission even before it completed its work as being opposed to that portion of the eleemosynary support item which called for the State to relieve the cost of the operation of the State hospitals for the insane, and it is virtually certain the Governor will not recommend such support. At present the counties pay $18 per month for each charity patient.

It may be expected that the urgent needs of the eleemosynary and penal institutions will be taken up by the Governor as the first matter to be provided for, and that the university and teachers' colleges must wait. There is little likelihood that the Governor will approve the recommendations for a $500,000 State office building and a $150,000 executive mansion.

COUNTRESS SAYS HUSBAND VANISHED WITH HER MONEY

Widow of Titanic Victim Seeks Annulment of Marriage to Man 20 Years Her Junior.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The Countess Shack Gracie de Urbina told Official Referee William F. Burr today that Humberto Aguirre de Urbina, "was such a devoted lover" that she married him after three months' acquaintance, but that after some 13 months of wedlock he tried to kill her and then vanished simultaneously with her money and jewels.

She is seeking to have the marriage annulled. The Countess, daughter of a former Danish Ambassador to the United States, widow of Col. Archibald Gracie—a victim of the Titanic disaster—said that de Urbina represented himself as a descendant of Raphael, the great painter. She continued that he said he had estates from his Uncle Aguirre, Papal Ambassador to France and Chile.

She met him in February, 1924. He was 20 years her junior. "Were all his representations false?" Burr asked. "All poppycock," replied the Countess. He never had been in Europe, she continued, and his final exit was as a cook and dishwasher on a boat bound for Chile, and she did not know his present whereabouts. The referee reserved decision.

Sugar Lobby Tried to Use Influence on Hoover

Shattuck, who is a very intimate friend of Hoover, and has already talked with Hoover about this subject. "He (Shattuck) was very sympathetic in stating that the Philippines are the most dangerous competitors of the United States producers. He had many facts and figures which he supplied to me and urged me to advertise as widely as possible the desirability of limiting the Philippines to 500,000 tons. He stated very specifically that he proposed to make a big fight on that point. Of course, at that time it was not thought that Shattuck was to be Secretary of State. It is not yet absolutely certain that Shattuck will be Secretary of State. He may be Attorney-General. In any event I shall be able to have a personal talk with Shattuck. I have known him very intimately for 25 years and his wife is a cousin of my wife's."

Shattuck said the "special connections" were Shattuck's family relations with Senator Smoot and President Hoover's confidence in Shattuck. Several other Lakin letters to American business men emphasized that Shattuck was an "intimate friend" of President Hoover. Lakin denied that these letters were for solicitation of funds.

Shattuck to Testify. Today marked Lakin's third appearance in the witness chair this week, and the committee is not yet through with him. Shattuck will be the next witness unless the committee decides to interrupt the present line of inquiry to hear Julius Barnes, head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, next Tuesday.

All of the five members of the committee were present apparently drawn by the evidence yesterday that Lakin had sought to foment distrust of the United States in Latin America.

Auburn Warden's Own Story Of How He and Guards Were Overpowered by Rioters

Head of Prison and Officers Handcuffed and Used as Shields for Convicts on March Toward Exit.

By the Associated Press.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Warden Edgar S. Jennings of Auburn prison last night told the story of his capture by rioting convicts yesterday morning. He gave the account from his bed where he is recovering from the effects of a gas used by State troopers as they released the warden and seven guards from the rioters. His story follows:

"Soon after 10 o'clock I was informed that there was some disturbance in the prison, so I went down to the kitchen where I knew I had some reliable men who could ascertain what was wrong. I was returning from the kitchen and had reached the stairway leading up to the principal keeper's office and the chapel door when a convict suddenly stepped out and held a revolver against me. 'Do not move or anything, warden, or I will kill you,' he said quietly. 'At the same time, two other convicts, one with a knife and one with a razor, came on each side of me and threatened to kill me if I made any outcry. I glanced at the one and saw that the convict with the revolver meant business. This convict then said: 'Just come with me, warden; we want you to accompany us to the punishment gallery, and you will have to cover us, or we will kill you.'"

Three Guards Taken Prisoner. "On reaching the punishment gallery, the three guards in charge, seeing me, and not suspecting that anything was wrong, suddenly found themselves held up at the points of revolvers, and they too were relieved of their weapons and were forced to open all the punishment cells, releasing most of the men who figured in the subsequent shooting. 'We were then handcuffed together, in pairs, and were taken to the upper back hall of the south wing, and there several more guards were taken prisoner in the same manner. Some of the convicts were forced to open all the punishment cells, releasing most of the men who figured in the subsequent shooting. 25 YEARS FOR PART IN HOLDUP MURDER

Otto Morgan Convicted as Complice in Killing of E.
St. Louis Druggist.

Twenty-five years in prison was the punishment fixed for Otto Morgan, 24 years old, found guilty last night of complicity in the murder of Charles C. "Adrick" East, St. Louis druggist, in a holdup in March 2.

Jesse Wyatt, 21, who pleaded guilty, is serving a 99-year sentence.

Appearing as a witness for Morgan, Wyatt assumed full responsibility for the killing. He said that he was passing Ladrick's store at 1401 Missouri avenue when he and Wyatt suggested a holdup.

Wyatt said he went inside and shot the druggist while Morgan, who thought he had been joking, remained outside.

However, detectives testified that Morgan admitted to them that he acted as a lookout for Wyatt. At the shooting, the two men continued on their way to a dance.

James M. Whelan, builder, director of the Fruin-Colson Contracting Co., died today of pneumonia at his home, 1225 Amherst place. He was 71 years old and had been ill about three months. Born in Ireland, Mr. Whelan came to St. Louis as a young man. He was connected with the contracting company for more than 25 years. Surviving him are his widow, a son, James M. Whelan Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Berry-Bergs Coal Co., and three daughters, Mrs. C. H. Lewis, Mrs. Whelan and Marjorie Whelan, a policewoman. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 a. m. at St. Rose's Catholic Church, Maple and Goodfellow avenues, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

FORMER AGENT OF UNION DENIES MISUSING FUNDS

Both Sides Rest and Arguments Begin in Trial of Hugh J. Gordon, Said to Be $13,000 Short.

TELLS OF UNIONIZING PLANT IN CHICAGO

Denies Testimony of Other Officers That He Had Admitted Embezzlement to Them.

Testimony was concluded and arguments begun this afternoon in the trial of Hugh J. Gordon, former president, secretary, treasurer and business agent of the St. Louis Web Pressmen's Union, charged with the embezzlement of union funds, before a jury in Circuit Judge Calhoun's court.

Cross-examination of Gordon occupied most of the morning and early afternoon. Before resting its case, the state offered in rebuttal two former members of the union, George Bauer, who denied a statement by Gordon that a secret record of expenditures was kept by the board in addition to the books which were open to the members of the union.

Gordon denied that he had misused any of the organization's money, contradicted other officers of the union who had testified that he admitted a shortage, and declared that he had spent substantial amounts of money on union business which were not noted in his accounts. He is specifically charged with the embezzlement of $13,000, although an audit introduced in evidence shows a shortage of $12,000 during 1927 and 1928.

Questioned About Trips.
Assistant Circuit Attorney Flynn spent more than an hour examining Gordon about annual trips to Washington and New York, the last in April, 1928, when Gordon and he spent between $400 and $500 on a trip to New York. He said he did not spend the union's money because the executive board felt that members of the union "might not understand the purposes for which it was spent."

Gordon said he made the trip to obtain information about national advertising contracts allotted to St. Louis newspapers in order that the union officers might estimate their earnings before discussing renewal of wages contracts. Besides his personal expenses, Gordon said he made payments to and provided entertainment for his personal friends.

In spite of his protests, he was compelled to name a man in New York to whom he paid "a couple of hundred dollars" for information from the files of the National Advertising Bureau and three men in Washington to whom he gave $25 or $30 each and a lot of entertainment for information from the Labor Bureau.

Tells of Expenditures.
Gordon identified a copy of a resolution, signed by the union's executive board, which gave him authority to spend money in negotiating with employers on contract renewals, wage scales and working conditions. He had prepared this resolution at home, he said, anticipating that his expenditures might be questioned at some time.

In response to questions by his lawyer, George McDonald, Gordon testified that he spent "plenty of money" in Chicago during 1928 while unionizing a rotogravure plant there; that he had paid a lawyer $2500, mostly in cash, for work in revising the union's by-laws; that he had spent substantial amounts in obtaining statistical data on the earnings of publishing firms with which he had negotiated in the interest of the pressmen.

With the opening of cross-examination, Gordon replied to the question of the prosecution with a declaration that he was not in jail at the time of the trial. He testified that he had discovered three unpaid debt claims by widows of pressmen, each of which cases members of the union had been assessed.

Gordon, who is 45 years old and lives at 2419 California avenue, was president of the union for 10 years before his suspension in 1928. The union is composed of about 370 pressmen employed in St. Louis newspaper plants.

3 VILLAGES TO VOTE ON FIRE DEPARTMENT

McKnight, Ladue and Deer Creek to Decide on Bond Issue, Probably $60,000.

A bond issue, probably of $60,000, will be submitted jointly to the suburban villages of McKnight, Ladue and Deer Creek within from one to four months for the establishment of a community fire department. It would finance an engine house on Clayton road, west of Cella road, convenient to the whole territory and the purchase of a motor pumper.

It is planned to employ five firemen, three of whom would always be on duty. The St. Louis County Water Co. has arranged to install fire plugs at its own expense, which the villages would rent from it at $50 each a year. The villages, which flank Clayton road west of Richmond Heights and Clayton, contain many fine homes.

Local elites 25c on $100.
In preparation for the maintenance of the Fire Department, McKnight and Ladue have levied local taxes of 25 cents on the $100 valuation, the constitutional limit for villages, and Deer Creek has made a 20-cent levy. These are the first taxes in the village, which have been operated with virtually no fire protection since none of the officials receive salaries. Fire protection will be paid for by the villages jointly, in proportion to their assessed valuations, and the three boards of trustees will enter contracts for this purpose. A two-thirds majority for the bond issue must be received in each village for passage.

About 25 residents of McKnight, led by John E. Mooney, a lawyer, met at the courthouse in Clayton last night to protest against the tax levy. They said they had understood when McKnight was incorporated about a year ago that the intention was only to defeat annexation of the section by Clayton, without developing a municipal government or incurring local taxes.

Other objections voiced at the meeting were that the board of trustees did not inform the people when and where its meetings were held, and that the new McKnight zoning ordinance unjustly restricted the use of some property. Another gathering, to obtain the sentiment of the people about the taxes, was called for next Wednesday night at Mooney's home, Price and Ladue roads.

Alvan J. Goodbar, chairman of the McKnight trustees and a lawyer, pointed out that the water company would reduce its domestic rates in the village by 25 per cent when the fire plugs were installed, and that fire insurance rates were expected to be cut in half.

The aggregate assessed valuation of the three villages is about $6,000,000. This will yield a gross revenue at the current tax rate of about $13,500, of which about $4000 will be raised in McKnight. The villages cover perhaps eight square miles, and the density of their population is relatively light.

MINER CAUGHT BY CAVE-IN DIRECTS WORK OF RESCUERS
CROSBY, Minn., Dec. 12.—Smoking cigarettes and partaking of nourishment prescribed by physicians, Gus Snyder, 48-year-old miner, directed men who sought to rescue him today.

He was imprisoned Tuesday in a sub-chamber, 87 feet underground in the Croft mine, when ore broke through timber supports shortly after a companion had left him. Workmen established communication with him late yesterday, 24 hours after he was trapped, and food, tobacco and a stimulant were pressed through an aperture to him.

Rescuers were forced to work slowly to prevent a further cave-in. Although Snyder's legs are pinned down by a timber he is able to use his arms to reach food passed down through the crevice.

SUES COL. ROGERS' BRIDE, CHARGING MARRIAGE PLOT

ber, 1928, until June, 1929, the defendants and each of them represented to Henry H. Rogers that they were the wife of the defendant, Franz Josef, Emperor of Austria, and represented to Henry H. Rogers that the defendant Rogers received an income and other emoluments from the Hapsburgs.

Question Allowed to Stand.
A motion by defense counsel to strike out that question as scandalous was denied. Attorneys for the defense charged that the question was submitted merely to give publicity to Kern's suit.

Justice Frankenhauer appointed a referee to conduct the examination of the defendants, leaving fixing of the date to the referee. Kern asserts he had a written contract with Rogers for employment until Dec. 31, 1933, and an oral understanding that he would remain in Rogers' service during his employer's lifetime.

He declares Rogers agreed to pay him a pension and included a substantial bequest for him in a will made prior to his discharge. He said he had been in Rogers' employ since 1915.

The present Mrs. Rogers is a native of Budapest. Her first husband was Paschody Savell, an engineer of New York and Atlanta, Ga. They were divorced in Paris. She then married Miles.

EAST ST. LOUIS TAXI LINES CUT FARES TO MEET COMPETITION

Three Firms Now Charge 25 Cents for the First Two Miles.

Two East St. Louis taxi lines have reduced their fares following the launching of a new company in that city this week. Rates of the new firm, the Blue Bell Co., operating Ford machines, have been duplicated by the Yellow Cab Co., which now charges 25 cents for the first two miles and 10 cents for each additional two-fifths of a mile.

The Brown Cab Co., now charges 25 cents for the first two miles, 15 cents for the third mile and 10 cents for each two-thirds of a mile thereafter. Formerly the Yellow and Checker companies charged 75 cents for the first two miles.

The Brown Cab Co., of East St. Louis has not changed its rates and continues to charge 45 cents for the first mile and 10 cents for each one-third of a mile afterward.

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN FATAL STUDIO FIRE

Executives of New York Movie Plant Charged With Manslaughter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Two executives of the Pathe studios were arrested today on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of 10 persons in the fire which destroyed the Manhattan Film Studio Tuesday.

They are John C. Flinn, 40 years old, of Yonkers, a vice president, and Henry F. Lally, 40, manager. They were arrested after police had seized 160 containers, estimated to hold between 50,000 and 100,000 feet of film.

The charge is based on negligence growing out of alleged violation of a city ordinance prohibiting the storage of more than five reels of film in certain types of buildings.

Four chorus girls and six men, all members of a company of 100, were burned to death when fire broke out during the filming of a talking picture.

Flinn and Lally were released on bond of $15,000 each.

MRS. WILSON GIVES TWO MORE ACRES TO MARY INSTITUTE

Strip 70 Feet Wide Along North Side of the New Site.

Two acres of ground, in a strip 70 feet wide along the north side of the new site of Mary Institute, Washington University's preparatory school for girls, at the northwest corner of Watson and Ladue roads, St. Louis county, have been given to the institute by Mrs. Newton R. Wilson of 4 Brentmoor Park.

Chancellor Throop of the university said the additional land would facilitate location of the principal's house and of a playground for smaller girls. Mrs. Wilson, whose known gifts to the university now exceed $1,000,000, donated the original 20-acre site for the new site of Mary Institute, which she paid $60,000, and gave $500,000 for the buildings now under construction. She owns about 20 acres of land adjoining this property on the north, beside the strip now added to the institute. On the basis of previous prices the latest gift is worth about $6000.

No decision has been reached as to when Mary Institute will move from its present home at Lake avenue and Waterman boulevard.

MAYS ACQUITTED OF MISAPPLYING HIS BANK'S FUNDS

Federal Jury Frees President of Grand National After Deliberating Two Hours, 50 Minutes.

Ed Mays, president and controlling stockholder of the Grand National Bank, was acquitted by a Federal Court jury yesterday afternoon of the charge of misapplying the bank's funds. The jury began discussion of the case at 2 p. m. and returned its verdict at 4:50.

The jury's first ballot was 7 to 5 for acquittal, the second was 10 to 2 for acquittal, and several more ballots were taken before unanimity was reached.

Judge Faris, in his instructions, had told the jury that the sole question for its determination was that of Mays' intent in a transaction, the facts of which were not in dispute. Mays, on May 31, 1927, checked $12,388 of the bank's funds into his own account, and thence into another account held in his name, and the money was restored to the bank Sept. 13 following.

Mays' explanation of the matter was that the money was entrusted to him by the bank's Discount Committee, for the purpose of making repairs on a Webster Groves garage building which the bank owned; that because of a national bank examiner's objections to the arrangement, the repair work was not done; and that the transaction was part of a plan by which the bank avoided double taxation on its interest in the garage, thus saving about $2000. It lost $2500, however, in the sale of the garage, making a net loss of $500.

It was shown that Mays, at the time of the occurrences, had 3000 of the 7000 shares of the bank's capital stock, and has increased this holding since. A majority of the jurors took the view that, for this reason if for no other, Mays could not have intended a course of action which would have been a bar to conviction if the jury had thought that the transaction taken by Mays with intent to convert it permanently to his own use.

Counsel in Case.
Howard Williams, assistant district attorney, handled the government's case alone. Mays had four lawyers, A. D. Norton and F. M. Curles of St. Louis, Frank Pace of Little Rock, Ark., and O. E. Gorman of Springfield, Mo.

The members of the jury were: N. S. Grosjean, secretary Burkhardt Co., St. Louis, foreman; Robert J. Schaeffer, bank teller; William J. O'Connor, lumber dealer; Henry E. Becker, laborer; W. J. Carey, bond salesman; Milton Moberly, investment securities; and Roy R. Siegel, all of St. Louis; Austin Staples, farmer, Farmington; G. W. Henry, merchant, Grubville; Charles Haserlie, insurance, Hermann; Harry Wagner, farmer, Danville; and Arthur Short, farmer, Cuba, Mo.

KEYS TAKEN BY MURDERERS OF MOGLER MISSING

Police Presume Slayers Knew of the Peculiarities of Locks on Doors of Theater.

Inquiry into the unexplained murder of State Senator Joseph Mogler today indicated that the two masked men who killed him in the Mogler theater, 2316 North Ninth street, ten days ago, were familiar with the peculiar arrangement of locks on the front doors of the theater.

On this theory, investigators seek to explain the fact that the two men took the keys from Edward Phinney, theater's janitor, before Mogler entered the theater, the condition being that the slayers feared the theater owner might lock the door behind him as he entered and thus prevent their escape.

The two front doors have locks of different types. One is equipped with a spring lock which latches itself when the door is closed; the other is equipped with a bolt lock. When locked, it would be necessary to use a key to open either of the doors from the inside.

Phinney opened the bolt lock when he entered the theater a short time before the murder and left the door unlocked. The slayers entered through this door and it is presumed escaped the same way.

Keys Still Missing.
When Phinney was marched down the aisle and forced to lie face down in a cross aisle, the man who guarded him thrust a hand in his pocket, took his keys and tossed them to the other man. The keys are still missing.

If Mogler had locked the door behind him when he came in, as he might have done to keep persons from entering the theater while he took his money from his safe, the slayers would have found themselves unable to leave the way they came without a key. It is thought that one of the slayers had Phinney's keys in his hand when he reached the door, to prevent the necessity of "doubling back" and leaving by an exit closer to the Angelica Police Station, a block away.

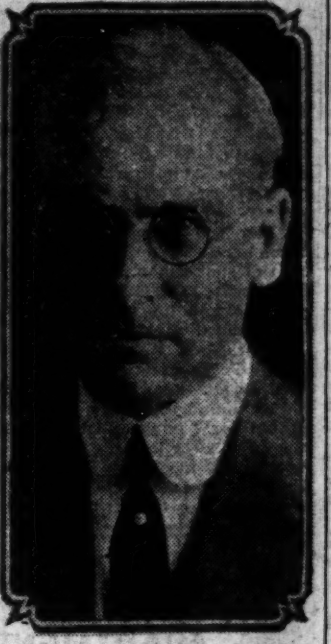

Detectives at Angelica Station today questioned a North Side police character who had been sought for a week as one of the few men who held a grudge against Mogler. Mogler's "Fifty-Cent Men."

This man was described to the investigators as one of Mogler's "fifty-cent men," a group of hangers-on who dogged Mogler's footsteps to beg or bully small donations from him. The man in question occasionally handled odd jobs of cleaning and repairing for Mogler until he was ejected from the theater.

Recently, an employee said, this man entered the Mogler Theater one evening and rebuked Mogler for ignoring him. "What are you trying to do, do me?" he demanded, and Mogler replied that he was busy. "Well," said the man, "election time will be coming pretty soon, and I'll fix you."

Informants told police that, during the primary election in August, 1928, when Mogler was an unsuccessful candidate for Republican Committeeman in the Second Ward, this man waylaid one of Mogler's workers and beat him so severely that he was in a hospital for a time.

ing the primary election in August, 1928, when Mogler was an unsuccessful candidate for Republican Committeeman in the Second Ward, this man waylaid one of Mogler's workers and beat him so severely that he was in a hospital for a time.

Committeeman Henry L. Berger, who defeated Mogler in the 1928 primary, conferred yesterday with Chief of Detectives Kaiser at Police Headquarters at Kaiser's invitation. They went over the 1928 campaign, which Berger said was one of the bitterest he had ever seen in the Second Ward, and Kaiser asked the committeeman to report any clues or rumors that might come to him.

SIX MONTHS FOR AUTO DRIVER

$500 Fine Also Imposed on Louis Dean, Baker.

A maximum fine of $500 for careless driving and maximum sentence of six months in the workhouse for leaving the scene of an accident were assessed against Louis Dean, an East St. Louis baker, by Police Judge Rosenbaum today.

Dean was arrested Nov. 2, 10 minutes after his automobile had overturned a parked machine with four occupants, and a dozen blocks from the scene, 1124 Boyle avenue. Dean, who will appear, denied failing to stop after the accident.

The Harrisons were returning from a brief visit in St. Louis with their daughter, Mrs. Vincent M. Carroll, 5579 Cates avenue, whose husband is assistant to the president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are survived by a daughter, Mrs. Carroll, of St. Louis. Mrs. Harrison leaves her mother, Mrs. M. H. Coppedge Steelville, and her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lantern, 37.

STATE PENAL HEAD AND WIFE KILLED; BUS STRIKES AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Harrison in Car Which Skids Across Road in Path of Larger Machine.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 12.—A. H. Harrison, 60 years old, Steelville, Mo., chairman of the State Penal Board, and his wife, 55, were instantly killed at 8:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a motor bus on United States Highway No. 54, five and a half miles north of Fulton. They were returning to Jefferson City from St. Louis. Four passengers on the Pickwick Greyhound bus were slightly injured and were taken to Fulton for treatment.

A verdict of unavoidable accident was returned by a Coroner's jury last night at Kingsdom City.

Funeral services will be held at the Harrison residence here at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, after which the bodies will be taken to Steelville. A short service will be held at the Presbyterian Church there with the Rev. John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis officiating. A Masonic burial will follow at the Steelville cemetery.

The bus driver, John H. McNamee, Fulton, and passengers on the bus testified Harrison apparently lost control of his car on the wet pavement when one front wheel went off the edge of the slab. The car skidded, swerved back and across the road and collided with the bus. Harrison was pinned in the wreckage and Mrs. Harrison was thrown from the car.

The Harrisons were returning from a brief visit in St. Louis with their daughter, Mrs. Vincent M. Carroll, 5579 Cates avenue, whose husband is assistant to the president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are survived by a daughter, Mrs. Carroll, of St. Louis. Mrs. Harrison leaves her mother, Mrs. M. H. Coppedge Steelville, and her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lantern, 37.

BLAMES LENIENCE FOR CONVICT RIOT IN AUBURN PRISON

The rear of the prison yard inspecting construction now under way. On his way back to the administration building he had to pass through the basement cell which leads to the chapel in the south cell block.

A group of the convicts in the segregation cells was emerging from the cell quarters and entering this corridor. A guard marched at their head, armed with the three-foot steel-tipped club, the only weapon carried by guards on duty among the convicts. Pawlak and Tuckolker were in this group. The line broke and Jennings was surrounded. He eyed the men coolly and said nothing. Somebody yanked the guard's club from his hand and shoved him into a corner.

Durnford Is Shot.

Durnford, whose ear was attuned to the slightest sound indicating a break in the prison's iron routine, was down the stairs in a hurry. The little group of men, their faces dark with fear and desperation, backed away from Durnford, shoving Jennings back with them. Somebody aided Durnford to his feet and helped him upstairs.

From high over the snow-covered roofs came the lonely shriek of the prison siren calling the countryside to aid.

Fourteen State troopers have been on duty since the murder and arson of last July to reinforce the prison guards. They patrolled the walls and kept up a steady fire on all entrances to prevent escape.

The riot was not general. Most of the prison's 1555 inmates were glad to get into their cells as quickly as possible to escape the singing steel jacket bullets that skimmed the yard. The next move of the desperate little group of 20 or 25 men was not definitely known.

The consensus about just what happened is that Pawlak and Tuckolker and their followers retreated into the downstairs corridor and erected a barricade. They had Gen. Jennings with them.

Guards Try to Parley.

Soon after noon prison guards came forward to parley with them. Before these parleys were over nearly every guard on interior duty in the prison was in the hands of the revolting band. The guards that carried weapons were disarmed.

With the Warden and seven guards helpless in their hands, the mutineers then disclosed a simple but carefully planned scheme for their escape. Henry Sullivan, spokesman, told the Warden: "We are going to ask you to instruct the men out front to let us go out with you and these other officers. You will have to give the order, or we will kill you. We are determined to go out or die, but if you fail, we will all die together."

A similar ultimatum was delivered to the prison guards and State troopers outside the stronghold of the mutineers. This demand for freedom at the price of the lives of the prison guards was delivered to Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, State Commissioner of Correction at Albany, and brought an instant refusal. Acting Governor Lehman gave full endorsement a few minutes later to the Commissioner's decision of "no compromise."

Lieut. Perry of the State Troopers delivered the reply to the rioting convicts and added the prediction that "if the State Troopers come in, they'll come shooting." The men refused to give up.

Son—Mother, I don't know what to buy brother for Christmas.

Ma—Well, he lets you use his car so often, why not a pair of Kelly-Springfield tires?

Son—I'd like to, but I'll be a little short this month.

Ma—Well, then, charge 'em to our account, or you can buy them on deferred payments at though repeatedly warned, and demanded that the gates be opened to permit them to get out. Shortly after noon State troopers crept forward and hurled gas bombs over the barricade. In the confusion, Gen. Jennings made his way out. He was suffering from the effects of the chlorine fumes of the bombs.

When he appeared he dragged with him a prison officer named McTaggart who had been handcuffed to him. Jennings was taken to the Auburn City Hospital, where it was said, he was not seriously affected by the gas.

After the warden was out of their hands Tuckolker assumed the role of spokesman. He was hoarse and spoke in broken English. He said he and his men would stick it out until they died. The State troopers told him he had not a chance. The National Guard was on its way. Soon the prison would be surrounded. More gas bombs would be at hand and there would be machine guns.

In the meantime guards had opened the main gate and the inner gate to tempt the revolvers.

into the open, within the range of fire of the men at the gates and on the walls.

But since Sullivan and Johnson had been promptly killed when they came out, the others would not come. The warden was out of their hands and they had lost what they considered their trump card. Still they would not surrender.

Three automobiles, their engines running, were driven up in front of the open gates to tempt them.

At 5 p. m. it was decided to storm the barricade. First the convicts were ordered to remove it. Atkins advanced to expedite this work. He was shot in the back. The State troopers gathered in the hall, headed by Capt. Stephen McGrath. The firing increased and bullets ricocheted about the dimly lit hall. The troopers then advanced.

The men fled from behind the barricade. Some were collared and dragged back. Pawlak, Tuckolker and four others raced desperately into the main cell block and up the stairs which led to the tiers.

The troopers were at their heels. The fleeing men went up and up until they could go no further. They rallied at the last ladder and turned on their pursuers. They were killed to a man.

When the troopers came from the shambles they looked ahead of them all prisoners who had thrown up their hands when they were killed to a man.

LIST OF CASUALTIES IN AUBURN PRISON RIOT: 9 KILLED AND 11 INJURED

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12. HE casualties in yesterday's prison riot were:
Killed: George A. Durnford, principal guard; James Blumstead, Julius Stefanek, Perry Johnson, Ernest Pavel, Steve Pawlak, Stevan Sporning, Henry Sullivan, Alex Tuckolker, convicts.
Wounded: George E. Atkins, a prison officer; John O. Burton, Milton J. Riker, Clarence Dempsey, Walter Farley, J. F. Van Housen, Arthur Holshausen, Jack Sagner, Arthur Rowland and William Ryther, all guards; Joseph Bravata and Claude W. Udione, convicts.

AUBURN PRISON RIOT IS QUELLED AND TROOPS LEAVE

The barricades were first rushed. These men held in the closest confinement. Auburn prison turned to the task of taking stock. There had been no arson such as had raged half of the prison during the July revolt. A few yells sounded from the other cell blocks where most of the prisoners were locked in their quarters. Order was rapidly restored and a list of injured began to be available.

Philip G. Roza, a secretary in the office of the Commissioner of Correction, came to the prison last night and began an inquiry which will be continued by Dr. Raymond C. Kieh, the Commissioner.

The surviving rioters, Kieh said, would undoubtedly face charges of murder. These men, he said, were implicated in a killing during the commission of a felony, attempting to escape from a prison. Conviction on this count, he said, carried with it the death penalty.

Food Supply.

Prison authorities have admitted that the food at Auburn was not as good as that at other similar State institutions. This fact was blamed on the acts of the convicts in burning the prison kitchen and storehouses last July. Since that time work has been rushed on the new cell block beyond the rear of the prison wall. A new cooking department was also established.

under the difficulties due to small appropriations and the necessity of appropriating labor wherever possible.

WEALTHY TAILOR FOUND IN RIVER APPARENTLY SLAIN

"Looks Like Murder," Says Deputy Coroner After Autopsy on Body of Benjamin Cohen.

Benjamin Cohen, wealthy retired St. Louis tailor, whose body, with a bullet wound near the heart, was taken from the Mississippi River at East Carondelet Tuesday, probably was murdered, according to Deputy Coroner Madden, East St. Louis, who performed an autopsy.

"It looks like murder," said Dr. Madden today. "It is possible Cohen shot himself, but not probable. The bullet entered the left breast and lodged in the left side of the back after ranging slightly to the right. It did not pierce the heart, but cut an artery above it."

There was no bullet hole in his vest, coat or overcoat, but his shirt and undershirt were badly powder-burned. He probably was shot and then thrown in the river, where there was no water in his lungs.

That the outer garments might have been put on Cohen after he was shot was suggested by the absence of a bullet hole in the vest, which was buttoned, and the coat and overcoat, which were open. Otherwise the revolver must have been pointed to the left of the vest or inserted under that garment, it was declared.

Several Days in Water. Cohen's body apparently had floated in the river for several days. Presumably Cohen, after being shot, was thrown into the river and carried downstream. His clothes were matted with mud and sand. His watch had stopped at 10:40 o'clock.

Identification of the body was made by Harvey Lieberstein, 6951 Delmar boulevard, a relative by marriage, who viewed the body after reading the man's right leg was amputated. Cohen had been ill, and a year ago his leg was amputated about six inches below the hip because of diabetes.

Since being divorced by Mrs. Ann Cohen last Nov. 2, Cohen had traveled between St. Louis, Miami, Fla., and Chicago, last word of him having been received a week ago by a brother, Harry Cohen, who resides in Miami. In a telegram sent from Chicago at that time, Benjamin told his brother he didn't know where he would go from there.

$25,000 Bank Deposits. He had $25,000 on deposit at the Hamilton State Bank. On Nov. 27 he had wired the bank president, Thomas S. Burke, from Chicago, saying: "Will be in to see you as soon as I get back. Take care of everything for me."

He was last seen in St. Louis on Nov. 11, when he returned from Miami in his sedan driven by a companion, August Hell Jr., 2614 Potosi street. He registered at the Ranelagh Apartments, 5707 McPherson avenue, but left when guests complained he created a disturbance in the halls. He spent the night at Hell's home, where it was said he left the next day without telling his destination.

Cohen was 57 years old. He resided before his divorce at 7150 Stanford avenue, University City. Formerly he had been in the tailoring business, his last shop being at 255 De Baliviere avenue, in one of several buildings he owned.

Inquiry disclosed he had been irritable and nervous and had threatened to kill himself and others, but the threats were not taken seriously.

Disorder for Cavalry Officer. Col. J. E. Gaubert, chief of staff of the Sixty-sixth Cavalry Division, in St. Louis on an official inspection, was tendered a dinner by the St. Louis Cavalry Reserve Officers' Association at the Roosevelt Hotel last night. Col. E. L. Butts, chief of staff of the 103d Infantry Division, introduced Col. Gaubert, who told of his experiences on the Mexican border and described the present condition of the cavalry division. He is stationed now at Omaha, Neb.

DIRECT AIRMAIL LINE TO NEW YORK WON BY ST. LOUIS

Proposed Route to Southwest Not Included in Interdepartmental Recommendations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. — St. Louis won its case for direct air mail to New York but not to the Southwest in yesterday's recommendations of the Interdepartmental Committee on Airways.

Inauguration of the route is not expected before the fiscal year begins July 1. Appropriations will be up to Congress, but many Senators and Congressmen have assured the committee that all the funds required for the St. Louis-New York route and others approved would be granted readily. The St. Louis case had been prepared under leadership of the Chamber of Commerce and presented before the committee four times. The last was an argument for a new transcontinental route. The committee approved the eastern leg of that route, New York to St. Louis, but not the western leg through Oklahoma and Texas to Los Angeles.

St. Louis, however, will have a connection with the route it did approve. The committee selected for recommendation one of the suggested Southern transcontinental routes, from New York through Atlanta and Birmingham, across northern Mississippi and Louisiana and through Fort Worth and Dallas to Los Angeles.

An existing St. Louis-Omaha line connects at Kansas City with air mail through Tulsa and Oklahoma City to Dallas. In the recent hearing on four proposed transcontinental routes, St. Louis had advocated a line, over the route followed by most of the transcontinental flights which have broken records, which would give it direct service not only to New York but to the Oklahoma and Texas cities.

While the Southwestern leg of that route was left in abeyance, its ultimate approval as air mail requirements grow is by no means out of the question. Assistant Postmaster-General Glover said that the plan probably would have to wait on legislation to permit the carrying of mail on passenger planes flying on regular schedule.

"Air Mail by Airline." The air mail service which St. Louis has now consists of three shuttle routes. The one to Omaha connects there with the western leg of the original transcontinental line as well as air mail into the Southwest. Another, to Evansville, meets a Chicago route which will connect with the new transcontinental line at Atlanta. The third connects with the eastern leg of the northern transcontinental line at Chicago, and it was the increasingly poor New York service over this roundabout route that provoked St. Louis' demand for air mail by airline.

"Air mail by airline" is precisely what St. Louis gets to the East under the committee's recommendations. The route will lie through Indianapolis, Columbus, Pittsburg and Philadelphia. Besides this and the southern transcontinental line, the committee also approved a new route from Louisville through Nashville, Memphis and Little Rock to Fort Worth.

COUNTY-CITY MIGRATION

NOTED BY PROF. T. H. REED
 In Address at Club Luncheon He Advances Arguments for Unifying Purposes.

There is a daily migration of leaders of the community between St. Louis County and St. Louis. Prof. Thomas H. Reed, consultant of the City and County Metropolitan Development Committee, who is drafting a plan for government unification of the city and county, told the City Club at luncheon yesterday.

He explained that many prominent persons in the city have their residences in the county, while county residents have numerous interests in the city and most of them earn their livings in the city. Although the Metropolitan Development Committee is evenly divided in representation between city and county, he went on, two-thirds of its 28 members reside in the county, and the same will be true of the Council on Metropolitan Government, which is to have about 150 representatives each from city and county.

Reed told about the various governmental services which need to be unified for the greater advantage of the people, and said: "Somehow or other the present deadlock has got to be broken by the city and county people getting together. They should accept a reasonable compromise for the sake of getting something of advantage to the whole community. You are one community. You've got to work out your destiny on a basis of fraternity and co-operation. The way to do this is to sit down and advise together."

Reed, who is professor of political science at the University of Michigan, was introduced by Luther Ely Smith as a real St. Louisan because of the interest he has displayed in the community and the knowledge he has gained about it.

HURT; BLAMES MAN HE AIDED

John Hunter Says Stranger He Gave Lodging Stabbed Him.
 John Hunter, 40 years old, 624 South Broadway, was treated at City Hospital last night for stab wounds of the face, which he said were inflicted by a stranger he had befriended. Hunter said he took the man, who said he was homeless, to his room. Shortly after midnight he awoke to find the stranger searching a dresser drawer. When Hunter protested the man stabbed him and fled, Hunter said.

Accident Verdict in Auto Death.
A charge of manslaughter against J. Lamont Gedyne, 1212 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, was returned yesterday when a verdict of manslaughter was returned at an inquest into the death of Miss Mamie B.

neau, 1512 St. Louis avenue, who was struck by Gedyne's car. The accident occurred Friday night near Miss Bona's home. Gedyne testified that he was driving about 25 miles an hour and that he did not see Miss Bona until she was directly in front of his automobile.

HUNT FOR SLAYER OF TEACHER LEADS AGAIN TO LETTERS

Miss Cordelia Gummshelmer Had Many Types of Admirers, Some of Whom Signed Initials.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 12.—The key to the brutal murder of Miss Cordelia Gummshelmer, Rockford High School teacher slain last Sunday morning with a gas pipe in her kitchenette apartment, may lie in the packet of 100 or more love letters found in her desk.

The letters were written to the 35-year-old teacher by eight or more men, not one of whom lived in Rockford. In many cases the letters were signed only by initials, and the writers are not known. Three of the correspondents, authors of particularly ardent letters, have been found, and their movements have been accounted for at the time the teacher was murdered.

Miss Gummshelmer, who had taught school in Rockford for nine years, was an outstanding personality in the social life of the Business and Professional Woman's Club here. Her acquaintance with men in Rockford, during the last two years at least, was apparently casual. But the letters written to her by men she met on her vacations, or men she had known when she taught in Porto Rico, or men she met in Chicago on week-ends, reveal an exotic emotional life.

Contrasts in Letters.
Among the pile of correspondents are emotional letters, obviously written by well-educated men. There are others in which the spelling is poor and the statements of ardent almost infantile. By the side of a letter from a man of obviously superior intellect, the investigators found letters from a correspondent who referred to "wonderful visits" with the school teacher and who sought to allay her fears that she was "getting fat."

"Anyway," the writer went on, "I do not like them skinny. You are not fat but just pleasing to the eye."

Other correspondents chided the school teacher, who had been engaged three times, on her statement that she was "only an old maid." They assured her of her youthful appearance.

Letters from varied correspondents, indicated the writer's desire "to hold you in my arms again." The 100 or more letters, written by men who were either intimidated or striving to give that impression, show plainly the recipient was involved emotionally with several men at the same time.

Possibly, it is suggested here, Miss Gummshelmer recently won an intensely sincere admirer who discovered and resented her affairs with other men.

Partial to Older Boys.
Persons who knew the teacher well were aware that in class she showed a certain partiality to her older boy pupils if they were esteemed handsome. Her boy and girl pupils regarded her as "a good scout."

Apparently there was no animus against her on the part of the other students for her failure to discipline one boy student who was unprepared in German or Spanish. It was a weakness on her part which was noted and condoned, probably because she lacked any school-marmish tendency to maintain the letter of decorum in her classes. She was easy and casual in the classroom, as she was at faculty meetings. Her teaching produced excellent results.

State's Attorney Knight, while striving to learn the identity of all the men who corresponded with Miss Gummshelmer, is also interviewing, one after another, the men students to whom she had shown favor, and also the students to whom she was giving special instruction, sometimes in her apartment.

Friends Repudiate Suggestion.
The teacher's women friends repudiate any suggestion that Miss Gummshelmer was free in her relations with men. They refuse to accept the implications in her letters, as do officials of the Rockford school board.

State's Attorney Knight thinks that the person who stood by the school teacher's bed last Sunday morning and rained four murderous blows on her skull with a section of gas pipe knew her and went to the apartment with the sole purpose of killing her. He rejects the theory that a prowling maniac crept up the back stairs of the apartment and stepped into her bedroom, killing a woman he did not know to satisfy a murder instinct.

Up to last night there was an indication that a wealthy Cuban, one-time pupil of Miss Gummshelmer, and who had paid her ardent suit may have visited Rockford at the time of the murder. By long-distance telephone, however, it was established the man is in Mantanzas, Cuba, and could not have been in Rockford at the time of the slaying.

Funeral at Belleville Attended by 500 Persons.

Funeral services for Miss Cordelia Gummshelmer were held this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gummshelmer of 411 South Second street, Belleville. The Rev. Oak Beach of St. Paul's Evangelical Church officiated. There were about 500 persons present.

sons present, most of whom went with the funeral cortege to Walnut Hill Cemetery.

Officers of the Belleville Turner Society, of which her father was secretary for many years, and City Attorney Peth acted as pallbearers. Two Rockford High School teachers, Miss Sarah Burr and Miss Helen Barlow, who discovered Miss Gummshelmer's body when they came to her apartment Sunday evening to keep a supper engagement attended the services.

Belleville detectives mingled with the crowd during the services and at the cemetery in hopes of picking up information that would identify the slayer.

Pauline Frederick Ill.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—Announcement was made today that illness of Pauline Frederick, star of "The Queen Was in the Parlor," has forced the closing of the play. Dr. Edgar L. Craft said the actress is suffering from food poisoning and will be confined to the hospital for several days.

Grounded Celtic Breaks in Two.

By the Associated Press.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Dec. 12.—Hope was abandoned today of refloating the liner Celtic which stranded on the rocks near here a year ago. The liner has broken her back. The front portion remains on the rocks but the stern has fallen into deep water.

HELD FOR CAUSING $5,000,000 DROP IN STOCK'S VALUE

W. T. Hollingsworth, Head of Neon Concern, Said to Have Used False Advertisement.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—William T. Hollingsworth, 69 years old, wealthy president of the Claude Neon Lights Corporation, was arrested yesterday accused of causing a $5,000,000 slump in the value of Federal Neon System stock by inserting a false and misleading advertisement in periodicals in New York and other cities in the country.

The complainants was Charles V. Bob, millionaire aviation enthusiast and president of the Broadway brokerage firm bearing his name which was preparing a $10,000,000 issue of stock of the Federal Neon Co.

In Tombs Court, where Hollingsworth was arraigned and released in bail for a hearing next Wednesday, an attorney for Bob said the advertisement depreciated the value of the Federal Neon System stock by $5,000,000, forcing withdrawal of the $10,000,000 issue which was to have been placed on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges the day the advertisement appeared, Nov. 26.

The advertisement, the attorney said, was addressed to the public and to stockholders of the Claude Neon Lights Corporation, and consisted of eight numbered paragraphs setting forth that the Claude Neon concern was not involved in the Federal Neon System and had not authorized the use of its name in connection with the system.

The attorney declared the action against Hollingsworth was based on a paragraph of the advertisement which he said violated a section of the penal code which prohibits publication with intent to deceive, of any statement as to the value of stocks which might have a harmful effect on their value or sale.

Hollingsworth was arrested at his suite in the Savoy-Plaza Hotel.

GRUNDY SWORN IN, RIGHT TO SEAT PUT UP TO COMMITTEE

Master Lobbyist for High Protective Tariff Taken Oath as U. S. Senator From Pennsylvania.

JOHNSON CUTS OFF NYE FIGHT ON HIM

Motion to Refer Case to the Privileges and Elections Body Carries Without Dissent.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Joseph R. Grundy, master lobbyist for a high protective tariff, became a Senator of the United States from Pennsylvania at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

On motion of Senator Johnson of California, at the end of a three-hour debate, the Senate voted without a roll call to permit Grundy to take the oath of office and to refer his credentials and all matters pertaining thereto to the standing Committee on Privileges and Elections with instructions to report back to the Senate on his right to retain his seat.

No voices were raised against the motion.

Grundy, who had sat through the debate, came down the center aisle to the rostrum on the arm of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania and was sworn in by Senator Mason, president pro tempore of the Senate.

In Midst of Wool Debate.

Appropriately, the Senator-designate from Pennsylvania, a worsted manufacturer, became a Senator in the midst of a debate on the wool schedule of the pending tariff bill.

The Senate knew from the start of the debate what it would do, but to opportunity to discuss a question of procedure was too good to be lost. Sentiment was overwhelming that the Senate was unable under the Constitution to do otherwise than give Grundy the seat to which he was appointed last night by Gov. Fisher of his State.

Action by the Privileges and Elections Committee will be purely formal. It will report that Grundy is entitled to keep the seat and the Senate will accept the finding.

Grundy takes the seat, which last Friday was denied to William F. Vare, the Philadelphia Republican boss, on the ground of excessive expenditure and corrupt practices in his nomination and election. For the first time in nearly three years Pennsylvania has its full quota of Senators.

Unruffled by the heated argument over his right to a seat, Grundy smiled happily as he was administered the oath.

Leaders of the Democrats and some of the Republican Independents insisted that no question could be raised against the right of the Governor of Pennsylvania to fill the vacancy. The election committee is expected to make an immediate report to this effect.

"Useless and Futile Thing." of the Elections Committee, protested vainly that the Senate in referring the Nye resolution to his committee was asking it to do a "useless and futile thing."

Throughout the long debate Grundy occupied the seat of Senator Norris (Rep., Nebraska), the author of the resolution excluding Vare. Grundy smiled as a rule when he was attacked and he laughed when Senator Hiram (Dem., South Carolina), referred to him as the "biggest lobbyist in the world."

The resolution of Nye sought to deny Grundy membership because of his participation in the $1,000,000 campaign of 1918 by which Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania was nominated. The resolution asserted Grundy raised $400,000 of that fund which was used in fighting the campaign against the Vare ticket. Because of expenditure of $750,000 in that race, Vare was denied a seat last week by the Senate.

Grundy was escorted to the date of the preceding officer by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, at the conclusion of three hours of debate over his right to a seat.

Nye to Continue Fight.

Nye said he would demand an early report from the committee and a vote by the Senate upon his resolution.

Meanwhile, Grundy an avowed campaigner in congressional halls for many years in behalf of a high protective tariff is a Senator, ready to vote on the pending tariff bill.

Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, moved that the Nye resolution be referred to the committee. With a smile Grundy occupied a seat in the North Dakota aisle against his right to membership. Many House

STATE INSURANCE PLAN SAVES $7,000,000 A YEAR IN OHIO, ACTUARIES REPORT

They Declare Workmen's Compensation Liability Is So Handled 36 Pct. Below Private Firms' Rate—Some Missouri Comparisons.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—A report by Miles M. Dawson & Son, consulting insurance actuaries of New York, after an actuarial audit of the Ohio State Insurance Fund, that Ohio employers and citizens save more than $7,000,000 a year by insuring their workmen's compensation liability risks in the State fund instead of with private insurance companies.

The New York actuaries, making out a strong case for state insurance, reported the saving in 1928, the year for which the audit was made, to have been 36 per cent. That is, that workmen's compensation insurance in Ohio, including the expense of operating the fund, was 36 per cent less than the insurance would have cost had the risks been insured with the private companies at the fixed rates which would have been applicable to the Ohio business.

$2,700,000 Saving to Employers.

On the basis of a payroll of $660,000,000, which was insured by private companies in Missouri in 1927, the latest year for which complete reports are obtainable in the Missouri Insurance Department, and premiums of $7,500,000 paid to private companies by Missouri employers that year, a 36 per cent saving would mean that employers would get their insurance for $2,700,000 less.

Under that saving this insurance charge against industry in Missouri would be $4,800,000 instead of $7,500,000.

It is impossible to make an accurate comparison of the state rates charged in Ohio and the private company rates charged in Missouri because the schedule of compensation paid under the Missouri workmen's compensation law is slightly higher than that paid under the Ohio law, and, as rates are fixed on the basis of the expected liability to be met, the rate under state insurance in Missouri would be slightly higher than that in Ohio. However, a comparison of a few of the rates indicates the wide difference, which is much greater than would be indicated by the difference in compensation provided under the law.

Probably the largest single classification of employees in Missouri is that of office workers. The office worker payroll in Missouri in 1927 was approximately $120,000,000. On this private insurance companies collected from employers, insurance at the rate of 6 cents on the $100 of payroll or approximately $72,000. In Ohio the State rate is 2 cents on the $100 of payroll, which on $120,000,000 would be $24,000.

Following is a comparison of the Ohio State rates and the Missouri private company rates on a few classifications, the rate being on the $100 of payroll:

Ohio State Rate	Missouri Private Rate
Shoe manufacturing	8.00
Coal mining	4.50
Steel manufacturing	1.10
Clothing manufacturing	1.10
Cotton manufacturing	1.10
Structural iron work	8.00
Chemical manufacturing	1.00
Operation and maintenance	1.00
Painting	3.30
Department stores	1.10
Amusement parks	1.10
Barber	1.10

The Ohio type of State insurance is known as monopolistic State insurance. A private company cannot insure workmen's compensation liability risks in Ohio. The employer must insure his risk with the State fund unless he can satisfy the Industrial Commission of the State, which has jurisdiction of workmen's compensation awards, of his financial ability to carry his own risk. For the year ending June 30, 1928, the total number of risks insured in Ohio was 40,328, of which 40,677 were in the State fund and 309 were self-insured risks.

An audit for the Ohio fund as of Dec. 31, 1928, shows that in the 16 years since its establishment the assets in the fund had grown to $56,217,323.37, the greater part of which was held as a reserve to assure the payment of future claims. Of these assets $49,247,670.99 was invested in Government, State, county and municipal bonds. More than $3,000,000 was held as a special reserve to provide protection in cases of catastrophes or the loss of several lives in one accident. In addition to this there was a surplus of more than $2,500,000, from which payments would be made in case a self-insurer failed to meet a compensation award by the commission.

Payments Exceed Premiums.

The fund has now reached a condition in which the total of awards paid each year exceed the amount collected in premiums from employers. This is made possible by the fact that nearly $3,000,000 is obtained each year from interest on the money invested. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, this interest amounted to $2,959,937.36. In that year the premiums received amounted to $13,809,824.63, while compensation paid amounted to $14,008,745.20.

Insurance rates in Ohio are fixed on an experience basis, each classification being rated according to the experience of losses payable in that class of employment. Thus rates are subject to adjustment each year so that a rate may be increased or lowered according to the losses in that particular line of industry.

While in Ohio the insurance fund is not charged with the expense of its operation, the appropriation for expenses being made from the general revenues of the State, this cost, which amounts to about $500,000 a year was taken into consideration by the actuaries in determining the cost of the insurance to the employer and to the taxpayer of the State. It is customary in Missouri to provide for the cost of special department activities such as this to be paid from department funds, insofar as possible each department is made self-sustaining.

Non-Profit Arrangement.

A reason for the lower cost of insurance in Ohio is that no profit is taken from the insurance revenues. A private stock insurance company must make a profit, and in addition it is under heavy operating costs, of which a State fund would be relieved. For instance, a private company operating in Missouri is permitted to take 40 cents of each $1 received in premiums for operating costs, the remaining 60 cents going to the payment of claims and profits on the business. Of this 40 cents for expenses, the private company takes 17 1/2 cents for acquisition expense; or the cost of getting business; 7 1/2 cents for the expense of the company's home office; 8 cents for adjustment and legal expenses; 2 cents for auditing; 2 1/2 cents for inspection costs and 2 1/2 cents for taxes. A State insurance fund would be relieved of nearly all this expense. In Ohio the expense of the department, $500,000, was only 3.9 per cent of the premium receipts. In the private company in Missouri it is 40 per cent.

DEEF SHORTAGE IN MOSCOW; MEATLESS DAYS ORDERED

Ratio of Factory Workers to Be Reduced, and Amount Served in Restaurants Restricted.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—Moscow restaurants will serve no meat dishes on two days each week—Mondays and Thursdays—beginning today. The decision of the Moscow Soviet making these two days of the week meatless was taken on Nov. 23 in conformity with a plan to reduce meat consumption and thereby relieve the shortage now felt here.

On days when restaurants are allowed to serve meat, each customer will be allowed to order no more than a quarter of a pound. In factory restaurants the meat ration will be 180 kilograms for each worker. It is estimated that these restrictions will reduce meat consumption in the capital by 100 tons a week.

To combat the meat shortage the Soviet Government is planning to import 5000 bulls for breeding purposes. The Government contemplates an increase of 400,000 cows in the country within the next 15 months. Half of these will be slaughtered for food; the other half left for dairy uses.

SHIP CARRYING $70,000,000 ART CARGO REACHES SAFETY

Captain Sends His Tug to Aid Another Vessel Distressed in Storm.

By the Associated Press.

GRAVESEND, England, Dec. 12.—Capt. Angelo Sturlese of the S. S. Leonardo da Vinci brought his ship safely through a storm into port here yesterday night.

On Monday night a call for help came from the Italian steamer Leonardo, which was not far away from the bridge on Wednesday night. The Leonardo was accompanied by the tugboat "Vespa". Sturlese sent it to the disabled ship and the Leonardo was soon out of trouble.

The master of the Leonardo was on the bridge for three days and nights without sleep.

SENATE VOTES FOR HIGHER RATE ON TOP WOOL WASTE

Proposes Differential of Three Cents Between That and Raw Wool Duty.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Senate today approved a record vote an increase in the tariff on top wool waste from 31 to 37 cents a pound. The House bill provided a rate of 24 cents.

This would provide a differential of 3 cents a pound between the previously approved rate of 34 cents a pound on raw wool and the 37-cent rate for top waste. The House failed to give this waste a higher rate than raw wool, which is one reason why this style is possible.

BRITISH EVACUATE WIESBADEN

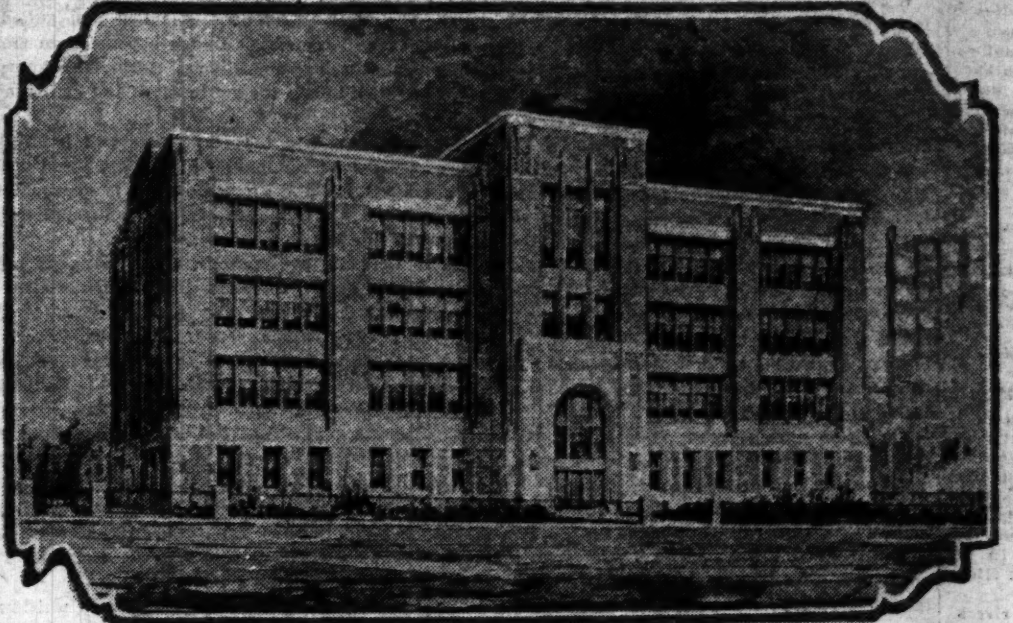

Departure of Troops Ends English Occupation of Third Zone.

By the Associated Press.

WIESBADEN, Germany, Dec. 12.—To the strains of "God Save the King" the Union Jack was slowly hauled down at 2 o'clock this afternoon at British headquarters in the Hotel Hohenzollern, where it had floated since Dec. 21, 1928. Gen. Thwaites, who in command, made the authorities a farewell visit and reviewed a detachment of British Fusiliers, a ceremony that was attended by the French Rhine District Commissioner and Gen. Guillaumat. The troops then marched to the station and the last contingent departed at 3 p. m., thus ending Great Britain's military occupation of the Third Zone.

Design for New Public School Building

THIS design for the $370,000 West Belle School, for Negroes, on Enright avenue, west of Vandeventer avenue, marks a departure from an older style of St. Louis school design and the entry into the "American" field. The plan is by Building Commissioner Sanger of the Board of Education.

WEST BELLE SCHOOL TO BE OF NEW TYPE

$370,000 Structure for Negroes Planned as Example of Modernistic Architecture.

A deliberate change from the general style of public school architecture to which St. Louisans have been accustomed for perhaps 20 years is embodied in the design for the $370,000 West Belle School, for Negroes, to be erected by the Board of Education on the north side of Enright avenue, west of Vandeventer avenue.

This is the first school plan submitted to the board by George W. Sanger, acting Building Commissioner, since his promotion to this office from that of chief architect several months ago. A striking water color picture of the exterior, by F. Humphrey Woolrych, was exhibited to the board for the first time Tuesday night. Sanger explained that he had adopted the innovation carefully, "to avoid the hysterics which so frequently attend a change of this importance."

St. Louis has had in the last two decades many new schools of an attractive but more or less conventionalized type, usually two stories high and often with peaked protrusions of the walls marking the entrances. The West Belle School design partakes of modernism and of the nature of the new architectural trend frequently referred to as the American style—that of bold, vertical lines. This school will be three stories high, which is one reason why this style is possible.

Sanger Discusses New Type.

The new type of architecture which has come into vogue through various influences and impulses throughout the civilized world has been accepted in our own land for reasons mostly utilitarian, Sanger said today. "In meeting the requirements of efficiency, we have given the new type careful study."

Sanger maintains that the "influence of the family and of parents is in most instances harmful, even in capitalistic countries." He therefore urges that children be sent to "baby houses" and later to "kindergarten homes" as far as possible from their birthplaces. He also recommends establishment of special "children's cities" in which State-reared children would live until the age of 17.

The correspondent learns that N. Krupskaya, widow of Nikolai Lenin, is strongly opposed to Sanger's project of depriving children and parents of the privilege of knowing each other.

As a woman and a leading educator she thinks that such a system would only compromise the Soviet system of education. She particularly resents Sanger's argument that children in a socialistic country should become the property of the State.

Recognizes Parental Feelings.

Krupskaya declares that even in a communistic country people cannot live like machines, ignoring their natural love for their own children. She points out that even though private property may no longer exist in Soviet countries, parental feelings cannot be legislated out of existence. She warns that many workers and their wives would never agree to their children being taken away from them and placed in "baby houses," and she thinks that they will be right.

"The feeling of child and mother gives too much joy, both to parent and to child, to be ruthlessly done away with," she says.

In place of a "baby house" recommended by Sanger, Krupskaya would have special buildings where children could eat, go to school and sleep and yet be near enough their parents to see them whenever they desired.

Sanger recommends that babies be taken away from their mothers immediately after birth and should never be returned to the parental roof. He would place them in special "baby houses" to be established along the lines of socialistic pedagogy. If this is done, the Soviet economist contends, future generations in Russia will not only enter maturity with greater physical fitness but will also have no false ideas about the obligations of the individual to his parents or relatives. Children will, instead, grow up to regard the State as their parent.

Special Cities for Children.

He therefore urges that children be sent to "baby houses" and later to "kindergarten homes" as far as possible from their birthplaces. Recommend That the Soviet Take Babies at Birth and Rear Them as Property of the State

L. M. Sabsovitch, Economist, Proposes Separate Cities for Children—Widow of Lenin Opposes Plan.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—Complete separation of children from their parents from infancy has been recommended to the Soviet Government by L. M. Sabsovitch, one of Russia's leading economists.

He argues that under a Communist regime children should not be the property of their parents, but should become the property of the State, which should assume complete responsibility for their care.

Sabsovitch recommends that babies be taken away from their mothers immediately after birth and should never be returned to the parental roof. He would place them in special "baby houses" to be established along the lines of socialistic pedagogy. MASSACRES AND UPRISINGS PREDICTED

Political Effect of Vote
Minimized by Fact That Former Foreign Minister Supports Treaty.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The House of Lords by a vote of 46 to 13 censured the Labor Government yesterday for drafting a treaty with Egypt providing for the withdrawal of British troops from Cairo to the Suez Canal.

The vote of censure was taken following a debate in which Lord Lloyd, Tory High Commissioner of Egypt, recently forced by the Labor Government to resign, denounced Labor's policy.

He predicted uprisings and massacres in Cairo and elsewhere when the British army withdraws and declared that if British troops are quartered in the desert on the banks of the canal, as the treaty now awaiting Parliament's approval provides, they can neither defend the canal nor quell those disorders which he believes will follow the end of regime of force.

The political significance of this adverse vote suffered by the Government in the Upper House will be greatly minimized by a speech by Lord Grey supporting the treaty. Lord Grey, who was Foreign Minister at the outbreak of the World War, seldom speaks on a political issue. But as one of the elder statesmen who still wield influence his stand is of great importance and will probably prevent the die-hard faction from seeking to follow up the vote.

It is however almost without precedent for the House of Lords to censure a treaty with a foreign power without the fall of the government and the debate in Lords, although it will be barren of results.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the editorial policy of this paper. It will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunder, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

De Toqueville and Senator Moses.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In 1831 De Toqueville, the noted French historian and author, visited the United States to study our democratic institutions.

Having a desire to visit the furthest outpost of civilization, he made a trip on horseback from Detroit to Saginaw, Michigan, and then on to the Indian Territory and back to Detroit.

A mighty race, which neither rivers nor lakes can stop, before which the forest falls and the prairie becomes covered with foliage and which, having reached the Pacific Ocean, will retrace its steps to disturb and destroy the social communities which it will have formed and left behind.

Has this prophecy come true? Perchance the sons of wild jackasses so derisively described by Senator Moses are descendants of the pioneers. For the early settlers of Michigan, the wild game, came from Senator Moses' own State of New Hampshire and other New England states, leaving the tame species at home.

Ford, Edison and Prohibition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why, Mr. Novinger, include Ford and Edison among America's foremost thinkers? Merely because they have a brain for business is no reason to call them thinkers and philosophers. Don't you want Ford and Edison placed among Socrates, Plato, Spinoza and Hegel?

Why blame Winston Churchill for calling prohibition a failure? You Americans hate to be told the truth by a foreigner. Don't you? And after clotting your courts with useless laws, you should by now realize the impossibility of wiping out a moral evil by legislation.

Why do you believe that prohibition means merely the padlocking of "dive" bars? Oh, admit that it's easy to lock up a place, but keep an eye open for the new place next door.

Why the big cheer, "Long live Hoover, Ford, Edison and the Volstead act"? I bet you believe in American prosperity, too.

Complaints of Taxes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been served with a notice of a tax bill against my property, $100 block on Sheridan avenue, for the improvement of Easton avenue. My property lies about one-half block east of this street. It has a frontage of only 14 feet. The amount of the bill is over $100. In addition to this bill, I was made to pay for the widening of Easton avenue. Now I am confronted with additional special tax for the widening and making of Sheridan avenue. This is very wrong at this time, inasmuch as conditions do not warrant such improvements, and what makes matters worse, poorer neighborhoods with their poorer owners are unable to meet such taxes, as the income derived from the real estate is not sufficient.

In my trips about the city daily, it is not unusual to see notices to property owners of the intention of improving streets, and if you will go through the older and poorer neighborhoods this can readily be seen. I am for the improvement and betterment of a city, but why not use discretion and pick a time and condition that will warrant such heavy expense in the form of improving taxes is wrong under certain conditions, as usually a client purchasing a poorer class of property for his use is buying some of the installment plan, and works a hardship. SAMUEL SILVERBLATT.

Thinks Girls Have Us Buffaloed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE gay and giddy, bobbed-haired, painted, scantily-clad women who parade the streets and display their charms to the public gaze have "buffaloed" the police, the clergymen, the politicians, the newspapers and the Federal State and municipal authorities. Verily, the immoral and the vicious are in the saddle. M. F. D.

Weeks and Miller.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I "don't" take long to heal political wounds. On Feb. 22, Mayor Miller, seeking the Republican nomination to succeed him, was waded across when he invaded the Eighteenth Ward, stronghold of the stable Hank Weeks, who was an ardent supporter of Miller's opponent, former Mayor Kiel. Miller pretended in that speech that he would like the advice of his "friend" Weeks about how to conduct the ward. The Mayor even succeeded in calling the attention of the audience to the fact that Weeks was born in Germany.

Came the primary. Weeks carried the ward for Kiel 5 to 3, though Miller won the nomination. Last Monday night the G. O. P. gave Weeks a banquet as an old war horse. Mayor Miller was toastmaster. He called Weeks the "nobles Roman of them all" and said he hoped Hank would live to see on election day. Miller said he wouldn't try to beat Weeks in the Eighteenth any more and Hank announced that he was through fighting Miller.

The House.

UNDOING THE O'FALLON DECISION.

When the decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon case was announced the Post-Dispatch said that Congress would have to decide the issue between the United States Supreme Court and the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is, the Interstate Commerce Commission interpreted the railroad act of 1920 to say that railroad valuation for the purpose of rate making should be primarily based upon prudent investment; whereas the Supreme Court ruled that the chief desideratum in such valuations should be the cost of reproduction.

Since the intention of Congress was clearly brought into dispute by this difference of opinion in a matter of immense importance to the country, it became the duty of Congress to say what it did mean. Had the railroads availed themselves for rate making purposes of the O'Fallon decision the whole rate structure of the United States would have been upset and the hardship upon those already suffering from high freight rates would have become acute. The Post-Dispatch therefore urged Congress to relieve the country from the possibility of such an unjust burden as that postulated by the O'Fallon decision, which was estimated to have added $21,000,000,000 to $23,000,000,000 to the value of these great properties.

The transportation act of 1920 required that after making 6 per cent on their valuation, all profitable railroads turn the rest of their profits into a reserve for the benefit of unprofitable railroads. The O'Fallon decision annulled that mandate, which was designed for the good of the country. The St. Louis & O'Fallon contended that if the Government had given it a valuation of $1,350,000 on the reproduction basis instead of a valuation of $850,000 on the prudent investment basis, the recapture would have been very much less than the Government claimed. It lost this point before the Interstate Commerce Commission. It also lost it before three Federal Judges in the Eastern District of Missouri. The United States Supreme Court reversed both the Commission and the Federal Judges. In writing the majority opinion Justice McReynolds leaves us to infer that in passing the act of 1920 Congress meant to imply that what it would cost to rebuild the railroads is the predominant factor in valuation. Justices Stone, Holmes and Brandeis dissented from the view that Congress meant to say anything of the sort, nor can we imagine it did.

At any rate, Senator Howell of Nebraska has introduced a joint resolution which would have the effect of undoing the O'Fallon decision. It declares the intent of Congress to be in accordance with the prudent investment theory laid down by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and would make mandatory upon the Supreme Court the acceptance of that theory. The Nebraska Senator says that unless Congress does so declare itself, thereby reversing the O'Fallon decision, the responsibility for whatever increased freight rates may result will rest upon Congress and not on the United States Supreme Court. "We will nullify everything we have done in the way of farm relief if this ruling stands," says Senator Howell, and it is indeed hard to understand how Mr. Hoover's Farm Board can help the farmers if this veritable sword of Damocles is to continue hanging over them.

We congratulate the Nebraska Senator for having given Congress an opportunity to say what it thinks.

WHY NOT A CIGAR WAR, TOO?

The fortunes of war just now are showering on cigarette smokers. At the counters where only last week they grudgingly laid down 15 cents straight for their favorites, they are now blithely buying smokes for 12 cents a package, two for 23 cents or three for 35. While the heavy guns of the cigarette makers thunder at each other in a war of attrition, a dime is saved for the Christmas budget or the Community Fund for every three packages purchased.

Not even the rankest pacifist, unless he be a cigarette dealer, can oppose a war of such wide benefits. Nevertheless it is a class war, for not everyone smokes cigarettes. The pipe addict of course is a harmless philosopher and never thinks of dollars and cents; but the cigar smoker, a canny connoisseur, feels sadly left out of the present hostilities. He would like to promote a war that would be of some help to him. The cigar makers, however, seem to have some sort of hand-rolled Kellogg pact all their own.

To stir up strife, the rebellious cigar smokers have to find the weak spot in the enemy front. That seems to lie in the delicate matter of a good 5-cent cigar, for which Vice President Marshall began a fruitless quest that has lasted some 70 years. A little neat lobbying by Mr. Shearer, who smokes big black cigars, would bring this issue to the fore again. Judicious spreading of rumors about what competitors are doing would bring on the frantic hysteria without which no war can be fought.

Now Old Joe Grundy will show us how a Senator from a forward State should act.

ARGENTINA—THE GLORY THAT WAS SPAIN.

In the audience that saw Argentina at the Odeon on Tuesday night were many memories. Living memories of Carmencita, Loie Fuller, Josephine Cohan, Ruth St. Denis, Isadora Duncan, Genee, Pallowa—priestesses all of the primal art, vague, spectral memories—immortal echoes, rather of ancestral ecstasies and despair. For the dance is old as love, old as religion, older, indeed, than man, as witness the ethereal dances of the stars. The art is woven into all human tradition of war, of labor, of pleasure and education. "If we are indifferent to dancing, we have," on the word of Havelock Ellis, "failed to understand, not merely the supreme manifestation of physical life, but also the supreme symbol of spiritual life."

The Greek drama, it is plausibly conjectured, arose out of dance and song. There is that fragment of Pindar which describes Hellas as "the land of lovely dancing." Sophocles danced in his own dramas. Aristotle thought tragedy sprang from the Dionysian dithyramb. "A good education," said Plato in the "Laws," the work of his old age, "consists in knowing how to sing and dance well."

A dance lingers always at the heart of music and in the heart of the composer. Mozart was an accomplished dancer, and, according to his wife, it was dancing, not music, that he cared for. Wagner regarded Beethoven's Seventh Symphony as an apotheosis of the dance. "My style," wrote Nietzsche, "is a dance." Again, "Every day I count wasted in which there has been no dancing."

It is in Spain, the authorities agree, that dancing is a deeper and more passionate impulse than elsewhere in Europe. It was in Spain that the grave traveler Poyon, entranced by the languorous melody of the dance, observed: "When one sees a beautiful Spanish woman dance one is inclined to fling all philosophy to the winds."

Time and the funerals of time! Her conquistadores sleep in the oblivion of the jungle, her purple galleons rest in the rhythmic embrace of the Seven Seas, but the glory that was Spain lives triumphantly in the divine movements of her Argentinians.

COL. SCULLIN DECLARES WAR.

In the battling lexicon of Col. Harry Scullin, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A., there is no such word as peace. The most of us may be lulled and lulled by the honeyed assurances that are pouring in from every direction, but not Hotspur Harry. He knows war is coming, knows it's got to come, and he doesn't shrink from saying so.

Leagues and Locarnos, pacts and promises, Presidents and Premiers sitting on a log and prattling of faith, hope and parity—all this is so much persiflage to the Fuzzy-Wuzzy of the Mississippi Valley. At the end of every rainbow is war.

Consider for example, these charming people, the Patagonians. Polished, amiable, persuasive, yes, fascinating, but are their avowals of affection to be trusted? Look at Tibet. Be well advised, Horatio, there are more things in the heaven and earth of that forbidden land than lovely Lhasa maids. We get rich presents of ivory and leopard skins from Rabinranath Tagore, but what American has been privileged to search the arsenals of Hyderabad?

Let us, if we will, take to our bosoms the treacherous Beresovskis, but will "Lighthouse Harry"? Not on your life! And, beyond that moonlight over Oman's sea, there are still the ferocious Tanganyikas, as ever boiling for a scrap.

And yet, with a Genghis Khan waiting around every corner to pounce upon us, we promenade fatuously along the beguiling lanes of plenty, unarmed and unsuspecting. We're a ripe persimmon, or a tempting pomegranate, or a luring paw-paw, to be plucked by the first exploring little Stanley that jumps the fence.

Whenever he thinks of our inviting defenselessness Col. Scullin mops a steaming brow. Did you know that we have forgotten how to make munitions? Has it occurred to you that right here in St. Louis there are folks who haven't a bow and arrow in the menage? What will you say when told that there are young fellows in this town who have never so much as put on a cutlass? And still we have alleged statesmen who can only whistle one tune—"All's quiet along the Potomac tonight."

President Hoover informed us with a good deal of regret the other day that the Government is spending 72 cents of every dollar it takes in for war. If we understand Col. Scullin that's a mere drop in the bucket. Perhaps you don't think so. Perhaps you think we are doing about as well by war as we can afford to. If that's your notion, then you are a "dumbbell" or a "mollycoddle" or a "maudlin sentimentalist."

Who says so? Col. Scullin.

Let no humanitarian urge the warring cigarette manufacturers to smoke the pipe of peace.

PRISON REFORM IN NEW YORK.

New York has found out how to adapt human nature to the incredible cruelties of our overcrowded prisons. She surrounds the prison with troops, and when the prisoners revolt, the troops pitch gas bombs over the walls and lay everybody out.

For a second time within six months the prisoners at Auburn State prison revolted yesterday, but prison reform has reached such a high degree of efficiency in New York that only one guard and eight convicts died. The convicts had seized the warden and eight guards, following the tactics employed by the revolting prisoners at Canyon City, Colo. The gas bombs rescued the captives in a hurry. The troops withdrew, the prison is quiet, the troops continue hard by, and all is normal again.

Somewhere in the pages of history there is perhaps a parallel to this, but nowhere has man's inhumanity to man exceeded it. The New York device solves the whole problem as to the overcrowded prisons. It solves the problem in our own State of Missouri, where we are told that as many as seven men occupy a single cell and 4000 prisoners are stuffed into quarters provided for 2000. All we have to do is to surround the prison with troops, and whenever some tortured delinquent curses God and falls on the guard's gas him!

Bus lines in Finland now have seven times as much mileage as the railways. Evidently the railroads have lost in the Finnish fight.

ASK US ANOTHER.

Five new questions have been added to the list which census-takers are required to ask as they canvass the nation for the 1930 census. They are: What is the value of your home, or how much rent do you pay? Do you own a radio set? What was your age at your first marriage? Are you a war veteran? And the provocative query: "Are you actually at work?"

We foresee the gradual lengthening of the census questionnaire to include a great many other things. Makers of vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines and so on, encouraged by the radio question, will demand a count. Sociologists will want to know, not merely age at first marriage, but age at all succeeding ones, why previous marriages failed and if divorce is contemplated. Thomas Edison, who can resist questionnaires, will hope to include such questions as "What is a watt?" "Which came first, the hen or the egg?" Psychologists will grasp the opportunity to Binet-Simon everyone in the United States to find the nation's average IQ. The wets will contribute to "Are you for prohibition?" but the more pregnant queries, "Do you buy your booze or do you make it yourself?" "How many gallons are there in your cellar?" Psychoanalysts will demand information about our love-lives and libidos.

These are only a few of the possibilities of census-taking, now that the bars are down. The statisticians, who have been creeping up on us for years, cannot help seeing in the census their opportunity for a coup d'etat which will in the end reduce us to a nation of question-answering serfs.

Add significant remarks: "Any reporter that wants to get a scoop may do so by denying any published rumors regarding my intentions."—Celia Colledge.

Tahiti

French possession in the South Seas, retreat for artists, writers, ne'er-do-wells, is a paradise of color, fragrance and dolce far niente; how Papeete, the principal town, amuses itself after dusk; at dawn, the native market springs to life, displaying tropical fruits and fish; excitement at dock when ship sails.

By Elizabeth Lord Driemeyer.

PAPEETE, TAHITI.

IN the Eastern Pacific, 10 days steaming from San Francisco, lies Tahiti, the most important of the Society Islands. The town of Papeete is literally a cross-roads, being a port of call for all vessels in that part of the ocean. There are many French there, and the islands belong to France, but other nationalities are well represented. It is a favorite retreat for artists and writers. Most of the inhabitants speak at least two languages, and perhaps three. The atmosphere of the town is French, yet colored by tropical and Polynesian influences. Life goes along easily with not too much pressure on the natives.

The island of Tahiti is unbelievably beautiful. Volcanic in origin, it is almost entirely mountainous with its highest peak, Orohena, more familiarly known as "Le Diamant," rising more than 7000 feet. Coconut plantations dot the lower slopes and countless valleys serrate the rocky backbone of the land. In the little town itself, the frame houses surrounded by large open verandas to let in the air are set back among palm trees, but almost hidden by the great bougainvillea vines with their clouds of scarlet blossoms. Everywhere one sees bright hibiscus and the fragrant with its heavy pungent perfume.

The end of the day, just at dusk, is an hour of enchantment in Papeete. Over all is a hush of peace and yet of expectancy, as though all life held its breath for a bit, waiting to see what the night might bring. The passerby, on foot and on bicycle, becomes fewer and fewer, and from the houses, hidden in the trees, comes the music of soft voices and of plucked strings. After dark life rouses itself and goes forth, pleasure-bent. The veranda of the Hotel Diamant is crowded with diners, tended by Chinese waiters speaking excellent French, and enjoying the epicurean delights provided by the proprietress, a French girl from Martinique who sees that off her hat to no chef in this wide world. In another street gaudy is in full swing at the Tiaras, once the home of Lovina, a character well known to all travelers in the South Seas. She was the original of the hotel keeper's wife in "Rain," having been transplanted for artistic purposes to Pago Pago. In the severe influenza epidemic of 1918 she was one of the first to succumb, and her death was a real loss to the exotic atmosphere of Papeete. But the Tiaras is still gay, and champagne at $1.50 a bottle flows freely. At the movie theater the picture is followed by a hula dance executed by a group of Tahitian girls and women. Under their European dresses the age-old undulations of the hula are clearly perceptible. The rotary movements of the hips and the gentle rippling of the arms are controlled by muscles long trained in the art.

In the heat of the tropical day work is suspended and sleep prevails, but in the cool seductive night-time there is no thought but of pleasure. After midnight the town becomes quiet again, but at 4 in the morning, long before the sun is up, the interesting and exotic native market springs to life. At first there are not many people about. A few fish strung on strips of bark are hung over horizontal poles, with their captors lounging about waiting for a sale. The Chinese begin to come in with their fruit—coriander, banana, of the small fat native variety, breadfruit, papaya, guava and coconuts. They are arranged in wicker baskets made from the plantain leaves, or long woven containers resembling in shape a Christmas stocking. These in turn are arranged neatly in stalls, and if the attractiveness of the display has anything to do with their sale, this fruit will soon be gone.

The crowd at the market becomes steadily larger. The Tahitians who have been fishing on the reef all night arrive in cars, trucks and wagons, accompanied by their families. The women wear red bandannas tied about their heads and the children are more asleep than awake. They bring in great strings of fish which they wash under the pump and sling over the rods. These creatures of the deep are a veritable rainbow. The tiny blue fish which keep close to the coral reef and hide in it for protection from their bigger and hungrier fellows are flanked by convict fish, with black stripes running along their flat bodies. Kikihiki, with narrow yellow and black stripes, running lengthwise, big blue parrot fish, red, yellow, black and still gray ones whose names we do not know give color to the display. Octopus—the squid much loved by the Chinese—are mingled with big crayfish, brilliantly colored and still alive and kicking.

Soon after 4 the Chinese shops in the neighborhood are opened and brightly lighted. Sleepy little Chinese children wander about, a native policeman stands on the corner and directs traffic, even the whites are on hand to buy their necessary supplies and the day has really begun. It is 6 o'clock before the sun appears and by that time the fish and fruit have disappeared from the market and it is time for the real business of the day to begin—whatever it may be. For the Chinese that means keeping shop or working in their gardens, and for the Tahitians there will be much

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.

REED SMOOT has forgotten a lot more about this Washington game than most of his colleagues ever will know. That is why he gave President Hoover a lot of worry when an attempt was made to dislodge the political bureaucracy in Washington. Everywhere Mr. Hoover put a finger he found a Smoot appointee in some key position. Utah had bureau chief clerkships and departmental commissionships many times greater than New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois combined. "Treated to their source it was found almost invariably these appointments had been made on the insistence of Senator Smoot. The Smoot organization was spread like a web over the whole Federal establishment. Jobs fell to it like flies. Once they were ensnared they were not released. There was no escape."

Senator Smoot has applied the rules of machine politics of the average American city to his little game in Washington and has managed somehow or other to get away with it.

When Senator Warren died, Smoot had it known that he had to run over to New York to ascertain what the "important" members of the Finance Committee Chairmanship to take that of the Appropriations Committee. The preponderant feeling in Washington is that Wall Street does not care a tinker's dam whether Reed Smoot is chairman of the Finance Committee or the committee on disposition of useless papers. He seems to think they do.

Smoot returned from New York all puffed up over the idea that he ought to stand guard at the entrance to the Finance Committee against the radicals who may dare more desperate attacks on the bank and stripes than those already recorded in the annals of the disgraceful scuttling of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, to him a legislative test of integrity and honesty and high purpose. It isn't difficult to "kid" Senator Smoot.

Leading From 11 until 2 the shops are closed in business as at a standstill and sleep is in order. In this way they pass the hottest hours of the day and compensate for early rising.

There is a boat leaving at 4 o'clock and just as the sun bursts from behind Orohena she pulls out through the difficult channel in the encircling reef. The wharf is crowded with people of all nationalities. Chinese clamor up and down the steps, ladder, embracing their departing friends and calling from the dock. Among the variously dressed Tahitians present there are some who are well-dressed in the latest American styles. Yellow breeches and Oxford bags adorn the corner and a pretty girl in a tight-bodied orange dress wears sandals with no stockings. Her plump feet, unaccustomed to confinement of any sort, bulge through the more openings in the slippers. By this time the town is fully awake. Bunches of Chinese bicycles pass up and down the streets and along the water's edge all the inevitable beachcombers with yet another day to waste away.

The Flowering Art

THE METROPOLIS OF TOMORROW. By Hugh Ferriss. (Ives Washburn.)

Architecture is the only art in America that seems unmistakably to have entered upon a great flowering period, comparable to that of poetry in fifth century Athens or in Elizabethan England. It is the one art that can be of vital value in the furthering of the most profound social impulse of our time—profit making. It is the only art that can serve the great god Money and remain an art. It has often done so, but that it is now doing so is doing so increasingly should be clear to anyone who has viewed some of the truly sublime temples of business, New York and elsewhere.

Art and religion are closely related at their source. The most beautiful and impressive structures of all ages and countries have been expressions of man's worship, and this still is true in twentieth century America, as even the latest tendency in metropolitan church architecture rather amusingly reveals!

There have been many books of an informative and appreciative nature on modern American architecture, but this writer has not seen one in which depth of genuine poetic feeling, philosophical grasp and scientific practicality were mysteriously merged as in "The Metropolis of Tomorrow."

The title may be a bit misleading, in that it seems to signify more or less fantastic easy in prophecy. But the book is built upon a solid basis of present achievement, and the picture of a possible future metropolis is undertaken only after this is considered together with powerful current tendencies that are determined by social and economic necessity—and even then the hypothetical city of the future is sketched merely as a means of offering constructive criticism to the end that the art of architecture may serve to promote all human values and not merely those of sense.

Over and over throughout the volume, with its many magnificent drawings, one feels, in spite of the author's convincingly practical approach, the thrill and lift of genuine inspiration; and always it is apparent that the builder in steel and stone and concrete is also the builder in spiritual stuff, the same social critic, the warm-hearted humanist.

Light that the book should give, it is interesting to compare this work, for nobility and sanity, with almost any up-to-date discussion of any of the other arts in our day of confusion. Or better still, since this is an exceptional work on architecture, compare any reputable work on the subject with any up-to-date work on, let us say, poetry.

Public Meetings and Entertainments

The Rev. Alphonse Schwittalla, dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, will speak on the "Biological Concept of Disease" tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Washington University School of Medicine, Euclid and Scott avenues. This will be the seventh of a series of medical lectures sponsored by the American Association of Hospital Social Workers.

Warren Ludwig, instructor in drawing at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, will direct the drawing group for children at the Story Hour at the Art Museum in Forest Park next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Drawing equipment will be furnished and children will be invited to select their subjects from objects displayed in the galleries.

The Washington University choir of 47 mixed voices and Charles Galloway, organist, will give a Christmas afternoon service at 2 o'clock in Graham Memorial Chapel. Christmas anthems will be given.

Vachel Lindsay, winner of the Poetry Magazine's award of honor, will give a chanted recital of his own poems tomorrow night at the Town Club. Lindsay chants instead of reading his poems.

William Beebe, naturalist and photographer of undersea life, will give an illustrated lecture at the Principia, tomorrow night, at 8:15 o'clock, on "Beneath Tropic Seas."

Dr. C. O. Sappington of Chicago, director of the Industrial Health Council, will address an executive committee meeting of the St. Louis Safety Council tomorrow noon on "Fundamentals of Industrial Health Work." Dr. Sappington is making industrial health surveys of local plants today.

Maurice Samuel, an eye witness to the Arab-Jew riots in Palestine, will tell of conditions there next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at a meeting at Temple Israel, Washington and Kingshighway boulevards, sponsored by the St. Louis Zionist District.

Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, will speak on "The Majesty of the Law" at a luncheon meeting of the Optimist Club tomorrow noon at Hotel Statler.

Not many such moving stories have been written as that of William MacLure, the doctor of the old school, who devoted his life to relieving the ill and saving the lives of the folk of Green Drumtochty. It will be a blessed thing if the story in its present form comes to the attention of the new generation that has not read it, and that it has been so well told.

F. A. B. EDUCATION AND RELIGION. By Charles Franklin Thwing. (The Macmillan Company.)

Charles Franklin Thwing, president emeritus of Western Reserve University and Adelbert College, was chosen to deliver in the year 1926-27 the lectures on the Bedell Foundation, laid in 1880 by Bishop and Mrs. Bedell for the purpose of interpreting religion, both natural and revealed, and for examining the relations of science and religion. The present volume, one of many that Dr. Thwing has written on education, is made up of the four lectures on the Bedell Foundation and addresses delivered over a period of 40 years at college commencements and convocations and at meetings of associations.

WEST BELLE SCHOOL DESIGNED AS NEW TYPE

that it might avoid somewhat forbidding and cold formality and retain the cheerful and friendly intimacy that we St. Louisans love to have expressed on our school buildings. The result is a very practical and unusually pleasing building.

The frank expression of construction which is the keynote of the new type has been retained; the broad and substantial lines of the base lend a sturdy repose, while the requirements of proper lighting are fully met by the large windows, and these in turn are divided and supported by sturdy and beautiful proportioned piers. The main entrance is as it should be the crowning feature of the structure. The building is to be constructed of brick of a warm gray color, trimmed and embellished by the use of buff limestone. The ensemble presents a building that frankly smiles as the pupils draw near.

To Accommodate 1800 Pupils. A contract probably will be let soon for erection of this school, on a 215x285-foot lot bought for less than $25,000 from the Public Service Co. The building will accommodate 1100 pupils with 22 classrooms, a kindergarten, a doctor's office, a faculty room with kitchenette, playrooms, shower baths and a large screened play space on the roof, as well as play yards.

The Board of Education approved preliminary plans Tuesday for the John H. Gundlach School, named in memory of the well-known St. Louis civic worker. It will face Arlington avenue, north of St. Louis avenue and south of Ashland avenue on a 360x360-foot lot running back to Temple avenue. It is proposed to build first a portion containing 14 classrooms, a kindergarten and other facilities, at a cost of $350,000, with provision for an addition later at a cost of about $55,000. Among facilities will be a band room, playrooms and a doctor's office.

This structure, with exterior walls of a kiln-run mixture of face brick, having a tapestry effect, will conform to the older style of design. It was planned by Sanger and the board saw a painting of it by Woolrych.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. SUPERMYTH has sprung up about the accidental rewards in writing advertising slogans. Since America became "slogan conscious" there is a belief the varied amateur can often think up an arresting line for some advertised product and immediately cruise to work in a yacht.

Thousands of letters pour into the advertising agencies daily from those who have just thought up a wow out of their own heads. Records show only one or two suggestions from outsiders have singled the bell. Mostly it has been a waste of time.

A striking slogan proves an enormous business setter. A coffee that had only a desultory sale was haloed into a "leader" three weeks after a catch line was broadcast from coast to coast. The enormous increase in cigarette consumption is credited to bright balbyloos.

Yet most of these scintillating phrases have come from experienced advertising experts connected with big agencies. It is not one of those quick processes of sudden inspiration. A year's time was spent on one six-word slogan that caught popular fancy.

Research workers delve into every phase of an establishment seeking to catch the eye with a brief sentence. It must tell all there is in heavy business loss. Millions have been lost as well as won in slogan experimentation.

An advertising shark tells me the well turned line must attain the pinnacle of condensation. He points out that in many instances innumerable voluminous reports are boiled down to a single one-syllable word. It is not a hapless feat of a trigger mind.

New York has only three trained men who have mastered the art of sloganizing—that is their products have a greater percentage of successes than failures. They are

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. paid salaries ranging from $35,000 to $50,000 a year and their entire time is devoted to the specialization.

ONE of the greatest slogans for sales power was encompassed in the line: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." It has a quality providing a field for burlesquing on the stage and in comic weeklies. And that is a valuable quality, it seems. The best slogan recently I think is "Better—tells it all!"

A CHORUS girl was praising the intellectual qualities of one of her guild. "She can speak five languages," she said. "And she can't say 'No' in any one," sneered a sneering sister.

APPROPOS of nothing at all, it seems to me the most beautifully named spot in all America is the Shenandoah Valley.

THE old clothes market survives on Baxter street in the East Side. Daily the eager merchants are on the sidewalk haggling with those who desire to sell and buy cut-off garments. It is a seedy down-at-heel crew and yet many men have grown rich bartering in old clothes. They become the shrewdest of all traders.

MANY of the flashy Broadway boys drop down to Baxter street to pick up bargains. Dishonest valets take loot here and often clothes made by expensive tailors may be salvaged out of the mountainous piles. There is a tailor on Tenth avenue who specializes in refurbishing such garments and fitting them to new owners with the latest cut and at a small price.

THE mummy room of the Museum of Art has a ghouliah fascination for many. There are a number of "regulars" who pay weekly and monthly visits.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Vilpha Barnes Wood, composer and conductor, died at her home here yesterday. She was 63 years old.

Mrs. Wood, who was known to radio audiences because of her broadcasts of condensed versions of grand opera, once directed the activities of the Grand Opera Society of New York, which she organized in 1915 to promote grand opera in English.

She was born in Kilbuck, O., and was a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Music. She prepared for the concert stage at the Cincinnati College of Music, where for a time she was a teacher. For several years she conducted her own school of music in Cincinnati, transferring this school to New York in 1904.

Surviving are a son, A. Crittendon Wood of New York, and a brother, Dr. Noble P. Barnes of Washington, D. C.

GRUNDY SWORN IN; RIGHT TO SEAT PUT UP TO COMMITTEE

scribed as the arch lobbyist in the United States.

"We will serve with him on committees and break bread with him," he added. "Many of us I am sure will succumb to his undoubtedly personal charm."

"This man has boasted that throughout his whole public career he has collected campaign funds."

"An Auction Sale in 1924."

"I have no misgivings of my ability to overturn the majority of minds here," Nye said in his speech. "I have no desire for delay."

"I am seeking nothing more than an opportunity to get a vote and to substantiate my vote in the Vane case."

Nye said, "We are merely making public office things to be offered for sale on the public auction block," adding:

"Instead of an election in Pennsylvania in 1926, there was an auction sale."

When Grundy entered the chamber, accompanied by Reed, he temporarily took the seat of Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, the author of the resolution excluding Vane.

No sooner had Grundy taken a seat than across the aisle came the familiar sound of his name in the tariff debate.

"These are the rates for the Grundy industry," declared Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, "and we ought to have some evidence of depression in the Grundy industry."

Norris arrived a few minutes later and both he and Grundy as well as the Senate laughed at the situation.

Grundy, his face flushed, arose to give Norris the seal. Norris waved him back.

Reed then presented Grundy's credentials.

Barkley Opens for Democrats.
Senator Barkley of Kentucky raised the first voice from the Democratic side against seating Grundy.

The Kentuckian said Grundy had raised $400,000 for the ticket on which appear the name of the Governor who now gives Grundy his appointment. Referring to Grundy's testimony before the lobby committee, Barkley asserted Grundy was "knocking at the door of this body" to see to it that those who have contributed to Republican campaign funds get their returns.

"I would not say that the Governor of Pennsylvania stands in the same shoes as the Legislature of Illinois which was listed in the Lorimer case," Barkley shouted.

"I would not intimate that the Governor of Pennsylvania stands in the same shoes as the people of Pennsylvania who were bribed in the 1926 election."

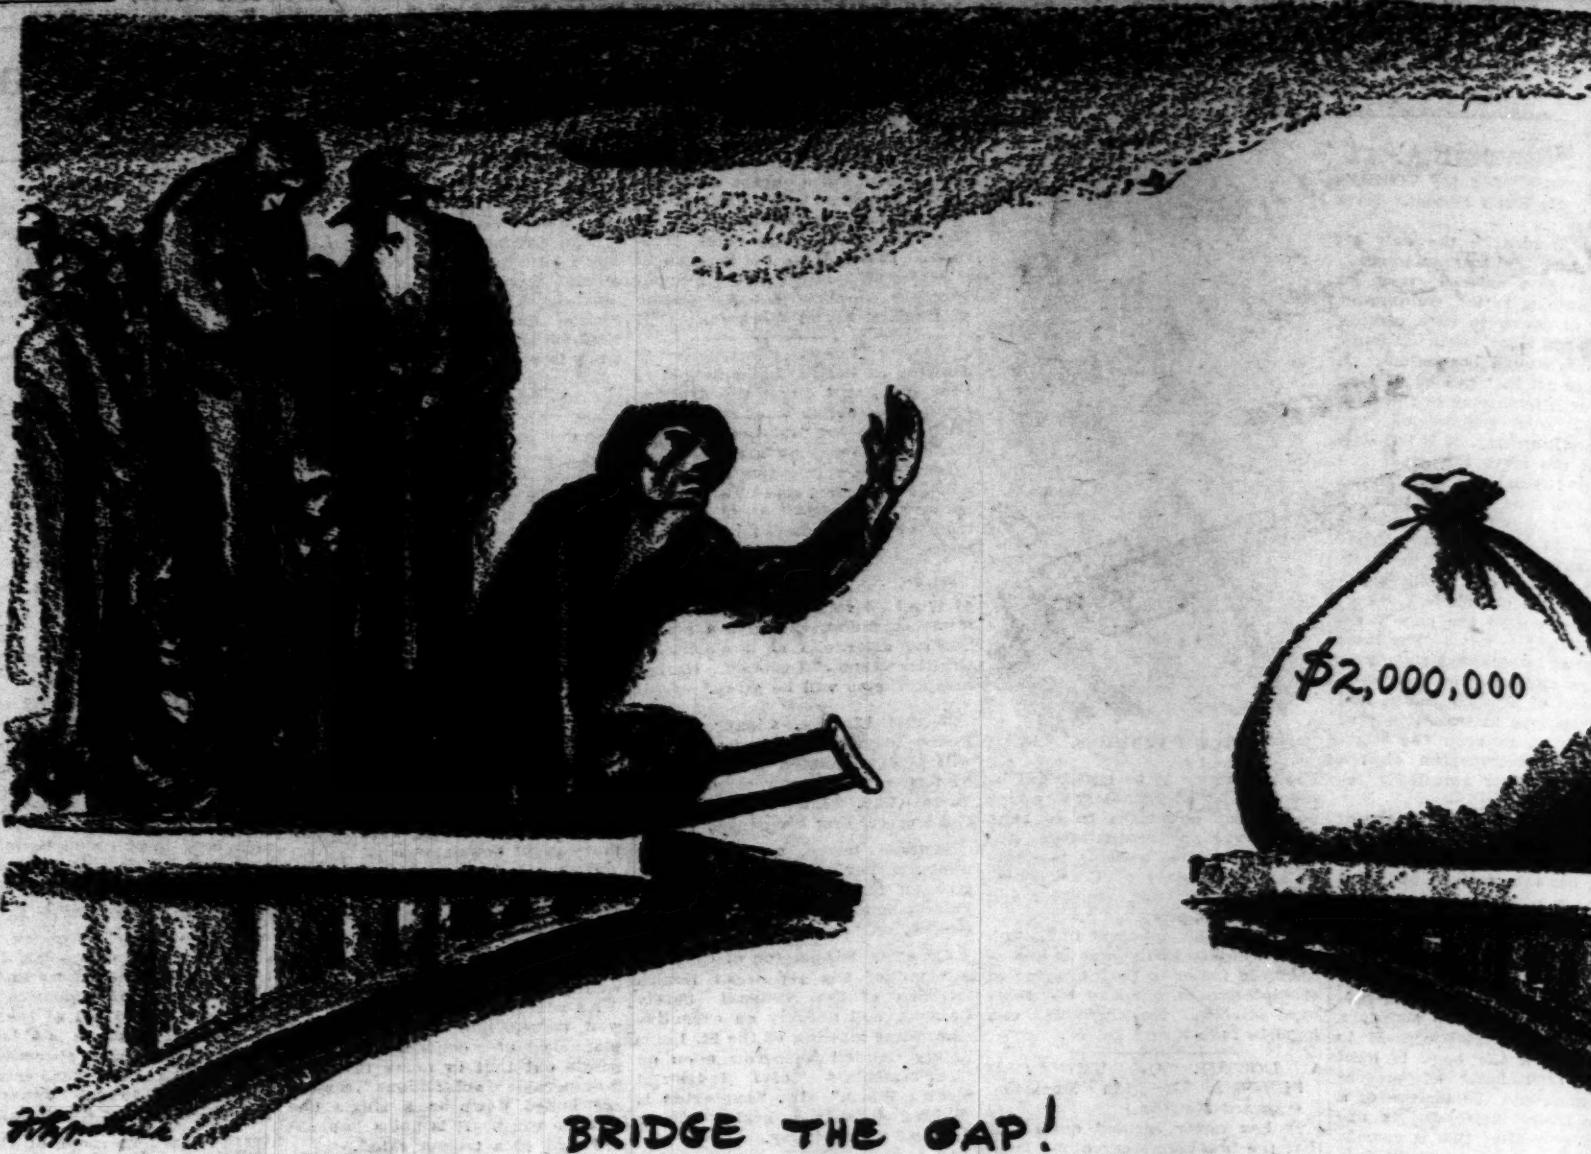

"I would not say that the Governor of Pennsylvania stands in the same shoes as Frank L. Smith, who accepted money from the insull power interests in his campaign for the Senate."

"But I do say that the Governor of Pennsylvania as a beneficiary of these campaign funds stands in the same shoes as these elements on account of which we have denied seats to other men."

Pittman Would Seat Him.
Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, interposed that "the people of Pennsylvania have elected Mr. Fisher Governor and he holds office without contest," adding:

"The Governor has a right to appoint and he has appointed. No one can say that Mr. Grundy who testified so frankly is immoral."

BRIDGE THE GAP!

Do We Dare Fail!

St. Louis is in danger of making a tragic mistake.

A goal of $2,000,000 for the Community Fund is within our grasp.

One hundred and fifty thousand dollars—pledged by a small group of public-spirited citizens—is about to slip through our fingers unless by some heroic effort we can reach out and save it.

This magnificent sum, including a single gift of $50,000, stands ready to be paid when we have raised the balance of the two millions. At this moment, with the end of the campaign only a few days away, we face failure because a threatened shortage of $100,000 in subscriptions is impending.

The situation is critical, but who dares say we are afraid to meet it! Cleveland did not flinch with a goal of $4,650,000, but went out and raised it. Detroit rallied to the call for $3,340,000. Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha... marched to victory.

This campaign is not lost simply because it is not yet won. With characteristic promptness the leaders have ordered the work to go on. Those who have not yet given will be called upon. Those who have given will be urged to give again.

Today the voice of radio will speak. Hour by hour the message will go straight to the homes and the hearts of our citizens, that families in distress, children without homes, boys and girls in need of protection and relief, the blind, the crippled, the aged... must not cry out in vain in this rich and prosperous city.

The campaign will close next Monday night, instead of Friday night. Three extra days have been added in order that every man, woman and child may be reached. During these three days you will have an opportunity to give through churches, moving picture theatres, office buildings, banks, radio stations, gasoline filling stations and through envelopes to be delivered by the Boy Scouts. Scores of convenient ways for you to pour in your dollars will be provided. Or you may mail your subscription direct to the Community Fund, Statler Hotel. No one will have the right to say when this drive is over "I was not asked to give!"

There is the challenge. The bridge over which our unfortunates must pass stands incomplete, waiting for the stream of dollars needed to fill the gap.

Seldom, if Ever, an Opportunity Like This!!

Place two slices of evenly cut bread in the Edicraft. Set the handy knob on the number of "toast brown" you prefer.

Close the Edicraft and attend to your other breakfast duties.

Automatically without watching or waiting the toast is finished—browned on both sides at once. When ready the Edicraft opens and there's your toast. More—it keeps the toast hot until you are ready for it.

GRUNDY SWORN IN; RIGHT TO SEAT PUT UP TO COMMITTEE

think he has an honest mind. It may be a perverted mind. But the states have a right to elect and select their own officers."

Senator Swann (Dem.), Virginia, also voiced complaint against the attacks being made on the Pennsylvania appointee.

"I deny the right of the Federal Government," he shouted, "to investigate or to dictate the election of a state. I am not willing to have it established that the Federal Government can go behind the elections of a state. It is dangerous."

To clarify the parliamentary situation, Senator Reed moved that the Nye resolution be referred to the Elections Committee. A decision on that was in order before Grundy could receive the oath. Nye said he did not oppose a reference to committee.

Thereupon Chairman Shortridge of the Elections Committee asked "for what purpose is this resolution referred to the committee?" and the Senate laughed.

Senator Wheeler defended the right of Gov. Fisher to appoint Grundy but he added "the appointment is an insult to the Senate and to the people of the West."

Robinson Favors Seating Him. Any doubt over the seating of Grundy seemed dispelled when Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, argued that the Senate has "neither the right nor the power to question the credentials of the appointee of the Governor of Pennsylvania."

"The Senate never has had and never will have the right to determine the election of a Governor," he shouted. "Senators may thank God that they are not constitutional lawyers. Why, the distinction is so clear it doesn't need a constitutional lawyer to decide it."

This question just resolves itself into whether the Senate intends to deny to the State of Pennsylvania equal representation during the term of the present Governor of Pennsylvania. The Senate has not the right to determine the election of that Governor. The only way this vacancy can be filled is by appointment of the Governor. The only way an election to fill the vacancy permanently can be held is by proclamation of the Governor."

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, suggested if the resolution were referred to committee, it would amount to authorization for the committee to inquire into a Pennsylvania State election.

Robinson reached the same conclusion and proposed that the Senate vote directly on the resolution at once.

Nye then modified his resolution to make it read that Grundy "is declared to be not entitled to retain his seat in the Senate."

It first read that Grundy "is hereby denied a seat in the Senate."

After Senator Reed withdrew his motion to refer the Nye resolution to committee, Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, renewed it. The Walsh motion was then the one pending before the Senate.

Sensor Norris said that Grundy's appointment was "a stench in the nostrils of the people."

"But there is nothing in the law preventing the Governor of Pennsylvania making a dam fool of himself if he wants to," he added.

Norris pleaded that the resolution be referred to the committee when Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, indicated he would make a motion to table the Nye resolution which would shut off debate.

So the great Grundy, master lobbyist for the last 30 years and the champion all-time collector of Republican campaign funds, will be able henceforth to carry on

His work within the Senate, among the Representatives of the "backward states," instead of just outside its portals.

"Maybe," smiled Grundy last night on his arrival in Washington, "maybe I will be able to educate them."

If his announced plans succeed, he will be no mere filler-in for a few months, but will serve out the unexpired Vane term, which ends in March, 1937. He will be a candidate for the balance of this term, he said, at the primary in Pennsylvania next May.

This means that the Grundy-Mellon-Fisher machine will again come into collision with Vane, who said after his exclusion that he would "fight to the finish." At his Atlantic City home last night, Vane said that the appointment of Grundy would not alter his intentions to seek the Senatorial nomination at the May primary.

Forecasts had prepared Washington for the appointment of Grundy, but the news that at last the "dead had been done," as Gov. Fisher said when he signed the commission, was received with expressions of intense interest.

No Person Better Qualified to Protect State, Says Governor.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—Here's what Gov. Fisher thinks of his appointment of Joseph R. Grundy as the junior Senator from Pennsylvania:

"There is no question before the Senate of more importance to Pennsylvania at the present time than the tariff. The person most able to carry on the fight for protection of the State's industries is Mr. Grundy."

The Governor made the statement on his arrival at the Capitol today. On his desk was a pile of congratulatory telegrams on his choice of Grundy.

POLICEMAN PAYS $3 FINE FOR MAN HE HAD ARRESTED

Officer Explains Walker Meyer, Merchant Is Out of Town; Judge Accepts Offer.

"I will pay the fine of this man I gave a ticket to," Patrolman Walter Meyer told Police Judge Rosecan this morning, when Harold Dunaway, merchant of 4217 West Pine boulevard, arrested by Meyer for parking his automobile before 9:30 a. m. in the downtown district, failed to appear in Court. Rosecan had ordered the man brought in by police when Meyer interrupted the Judge, offering to pay the fine.

"How is it you are willing to pay this fine?" Judge Rosecan asked.

"Well, his wife telephoned me and said he was out of town and asked me to pay the $3. She said her husband would send me a check."

Judge Rosecan accepted the $3.

The street car overturned, imprisoning the passenger amid piles of broken glass and debris. The collision came when the bus swung out to avoid striking a cyclist.

BRITISH LORDS CENSURE CABINET ON EGYPTIAN PACT

shows the bitterness with which the die-hard wing of the Tory party regards what it considers a surrender of imperial interests.

The Marquis of Salisbury, Tory leader in the Lords and head of the die-hard wing of the party, demanded that Great Britain proclaim a "Monroe Doctrine" over Egypt and other unspecified "certain regions" and called upon the government to declare in Egypt, "They could not merely allow actual control to pass in any degree into the hands of other powers, but they could not allow the political influence of other powers to become of a dominating character in any sense."

In government circles it was pointed out that the Lords had not attempted to defeat the treaty, but had merely censured it as they did the treaty of peace recognizing American independence in 1783, a vote which did not invalidate the American treaty.

Lord Salisbury's vote of censure as passed today read:

"(This House) regrets the precipitation with which this policy was entered upon and the risk which it entails to the security of our imperial communications."

The vote Wednesday was the third defeat in the House of Lords that the Government has suffered this month. The peers voted 41 to 21 "that diplomatic recognition of the Soviet Government is not desirable."

Another defeat had been on a phase of the Government program for increasing employment.

COMMUNITY FUND TOTAL $1,370,000; TIME IS EXTENDED

Through Monday in Hope Additional $150,000 Will Be Available.

$210,000 IN PLEDGES
REPORTED IN DAY

Collections to Date Are $75,961 Less Than Those Made at Same Stage Last Year.

Additional subscriptions of $210,- 000 to the Community Fund were announced at a meeting of campaign workers at Hotel Statler today, bringing the total to $1,370,- 000, or $75,961 less than at this stage of last year's drive.

The campaign, which was to have ended tomorrow night, will be continued through Monday in an effort to obtain $1,500,000, in which case the goal of $2,000,000 would be attained, pledges of $150,- 000 having been made at the beginning on condition they would bring the total to the goal.

"A careful check of the campaign indicates that it will fall short by $100,000, in other words, producing only $1,750,000 if terminated tomorrow night," Byron
W. Moser, campaign chairman, said. "Consequently, it was decided to close the campaign Monday night in order to make certain that we obtain the $100,000 needed to claim the conditional pledges of $150,000."

"The lack of ready and liberal response from many is discouraging to workers who are obliged to call several times, making it impossible for them to see all their prospects. With $150,000 in conditional gifts in sight, it is inconceivable that the citizens of St.
Louis and St. Louis County will not respond."

Subscription envelopes will be distributed to 100,000 homes tomorrow by members of 200 Boy Scout troops. Envelopes will be placed in 246 churches Sunday morning, receptacles for pledges will be placed in office buildings and public places, and radio stations will broadcast appeals today and tonight.

and Speaker Console embodies Screen-Grid quality radio in an inexpensive combination. Chosen woods and veneers with rich carving make re-fective console. It has electrodynamic speaker. Price, less tubes, $169.50

The one all family gift for this Christmas and for years to come. The new Bosch Radio is properly screen-grid engineered—it is the startling success in radio today.
The high quality standard of Bosch Radio is recognized instantly. The clarity, the definition, the beauty of tone is unapproached. The sensitivity and selectivity is as fine as the point of a needle and there is ample power to give you the stations you want.

There are seven tubes in the new Bosch Radio—three are screen-grid, two are the new, large amplifier type in push-pull.

Bosch Cabinets, concealing an electrodynamic speaker, are fine examples of the cabinet maker's art. Models from $119.50 up, less tubes.

Hear the superiority of Bosch Radio demonstrated at your dealer's and you will want one for your home.

Bosch Radio is licensed under patents and applications of R.C.A., S.E.L. and Telefunken

TESTIFIES TO FAILING MIND OF MCCORMICK

Last of Experts for Plaintiff on Stand in $50,000,000 Guardianship Action.

By the Associated Press. SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 12.—Announcement by Newton D. Baker, chief of counsel for Mrs. Katherine McCormick in her suit involving the guardianship and medical care of her wealthy incompetent husband, Stanley McCormick, that he would not call additional expert medical witnesses caused speculation today as to the trial of further testimony to be introduced in behalf of the plaintiff.

Baker indicated it would take at least another week to complete the presentation of testimony and it is expected the hearings will continue into the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. McCormick seeks the ousting of Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of Stanley McCormick, as co-guardians with herself of her mentally ill husband, and the discharge of Dr. Edward J. Kempf, $120,000 a year New York psycho-analyst, as Stanley's personal physician.

Dr. E. Huntington Williams, head of the psycho-endocrine clinic of Los Angeles County Hospital, the last medical witness called by Baker, yesterday testified that in three visits to the mentally unbalanced man during the last year he had seen little improvement in the patients condition under the ministrations of Dr. Kempf. Improperities in the man's demeanor during the last visit, Dr. Williams said, "indicated a falling of his mind—a backward step from the condition at my previous visits."

The witness described McCormick as an "endocrine psychopath," and expressed belief that the mutilational invalid is suffering from a physical disorder which can be corrected. The patient's age, however, makes conditions less favorable for successful endocrine treatment, he explained, but added "we believe there is a chance of aiding him greatly."

Mrs. McCormick, who contends the psycho-analytical methods of Dr. Kempf have produced no noticeable improvement in her husband's mental condition, has expressed a desire that the invalid be submitted to endocrine tests.

YOUTH SHOTS PAIR, FALLS TO DEATH BENEATH TRAIN

Intoxicated, He Had Been Forbidden to Enter Home to Call on Girl.

By the Associated Press. CARROLLTON, Mo., Dec. 12.—Enraged because he was forbidden to enter the home of Otis Cothorn and call on his 16-year-old daughter, Fred Eisenhour, about 20 years old, last night shot and dangerously wounded Mrs. Cothorn, slightly wounded Cothorn and fled from the house. This morning his body was found near the Santa Fe tracks at Carrollton Junction, two miles west of town, where he apparently had fallen under a freight train while attempting to steal a ride.

According to the Cothorns, Eisenhour, in an intoxicated condition, came to call on their daughter. Seeing his condition, the mother ordered him from the house. When he refused to go she seized a revolver, shot the mother in the stomach, wounded Cothorn in the left arm, and fired another shot at the girl, which went wild.

DEFAUDS BANK OF $650 BY DRAWING ON BAD CHECK

Marcus Turney, vice president of the Shaw Bank, Grand boulevard and Park avenue, yesterday asked police to search for a man who, he said, had defrauded the bank of $650.

Explaining that he was in the poultry business, the man, who said he was H. R. Rogers, opened a small account Dec. 4, Turney said. Tuesday he deposited a check for $800 purporting to have been issued by the Mason Poultry Co. of Webster Groves on the Webster Groves Trust Co. The man withdrew $650 from his own account yesterday before it was discovered that the poultry company's account had been closed at the Webster bank.

At an address on Caroline street, it was said "Rogers" had roomed there, but had left yesterday.

SUIT OVER TROTSKY'S MEMOIRS

Dresden Publisher Alleges Former Red Leader Broke Contract. By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Dec. 12.—Leon Trotsky, banished Communist leader who is now living in exile in Turkey, has become the center of a trial here in which a Dresden publisher is demanding that the former Red army leader surrender manuscripts of his memoirs in accordance with a contract.

Trotsky has refused to carry out the contract, because he learned that the publisher previously had brought out a work by Alexander Kereny, one-time Russian Premier in which Lenin and Trotsky were virtually accused of treason. The aid of the German courts has been invoked to clear up the issue. Karl Reimann, the publisher, insists that Trotsky carry out his agreement for the publication of two volumes of his memoirs.

Special Envoy to Japan Confirmed. WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The nomination of William R. Castle Jr., to be special ambassador to Japan, was confirmed by the Senate yesterday.

FORMER CHILD PRODIGY SUES FOR ANNUITY

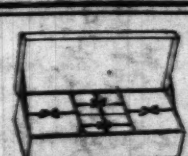

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Walter Backwell Storer II, daughter of the author of "Mother Storer's Jingles" and a few years ago a noted child prodigy, yesterday filed suit in Supreme Court for the annulment of her marriage to her first husband, Count Philippe Clintou de Roche.

Having been informed in 1922, she says, that the Count had been killed in an automobile accident in Mexico City, she subsequently married and divorced Louis Hyman, wealthy middle-aged sportsman.

Miss Storer relates that she married the Count in Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 7, 1921, when she was 16 years old. Later, she states in her complaint, she found out he was not the nobleman, composer and poet he had represented himself to be.

They already had separated, she says, when his friend, Frank Davis, told her that he had been killed. She married Hyman in 1925 and divorced him in 1927.

ZIONIST TESTIFIES AS TO SHORTAGE OF GUARDS FOR RIOTS

Refuses to Minimize Grievances Although He Is Asked to Withdraw or Support Charges.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. The New York World and Post-Dispatch.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 12. — Isiah Braude, first Zionist witness called before the British commission investigating the causes of the Palestine riots last August, completing his evidence yesterday, refused to minimize Zionist grievances against the Government although Keelen Freedy, Government counsel, insisted he either withdraw or support his complaints.

The witness restated his charges that the Palestine administration had not heeded warnings of impending trouble, that the police were unarmed and insufficient in number, that there were not troops enough to maintain order, and that, although armored cars were brought into Jerusalem on Aug. 23, which has come to be known locally as "Bloody Friday," it was almost noon Saturday before they were put to use.

Summing up the point the witness was trying to make, Shael, Labor member of the commission, said the Government was responsible for security and order and should have taken ample precautions to maintain them.

Challenge on Cablegrams. Freedy challenged Braude to defend cable messages, which he, as a temporary Zionist executive, sent to the London office of the Zionist organization alleging the Government here was pursuing dilatory tactics in repressing disorder and juggling statements of Jewish casualties.

In support of his contention that the police force was insufficient, Braude declared there were not enough policemen available to provide an escort when it was necessary to evacuate a babies' home in the suburbs of Jerusalem. The nurses had to remove the children under fire, he said.

As an example of dilatory action by the Government, the witness cited Acting High Commissioner Luke's long consideration and ultimate rejection of a proposal to arm Jewish constables.

The witness agreed that at Luke's residence on the eve of the riots—at which it was attempted to draft a statement designed to calm both Arabs and Jews—everyone present felt the situation was less threatening.

First Economic Witness. Sigfried Hootien, general manager of the Anglo-Palestine Co., bankers, a Zionist organization, was first of the economic witnesses called to support the Jewish case. His testimony was designed to disprove the Arab assertion that the Arabs pay higher taxes to finance a Jewish national home and are generally worse off than they were under the Turks.

After declaring the Jews, who comprise one-fifth of the population, contribute nearly half the Government's revenue and pay 45 per cent of the import duties, Hootien listed 11 measures that benefit the Arab population which are due to the British administration and revenue derived from the Jews. These include: a surplus balance in the Government treasury, repayment of Palestine's share of the Turkish debt, abolition of a military tax, improved roads, railroads, telephones and telegraph, extension of agricultural, health and educational services and, finally, confidence that all revenue reaches the treasury.

The witness declared that before the World War there were two motor cars in all Palestine while today there is one automobile for every 2000 persons. Questioning the witness on his statement that Jews in the last decade have put $225,000,000 into the country, an Arab counsel suggested that this had not benefited the Arabs because the bulk of the money was spent on imports.

"The values remain in the country although the money goes," retorted the witness. He agreed that friction between the Arabs and Jews was responsible for a greater expenditure for public security than might otherwise have been necessary.

SERG. JOSEPH SCHNEIDER RECOVERING FROM STROKE

He Suffered Attack of Apoplexy As He Was Calling Police Station.

Police Sergeant Joseph Schneider of the North Market Station, is recovering at City Hospital from a stroke of apoplexy suffered at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon as he was about to call his station from Broadway and North Market street before going off duty.

Schneider is remembered as the genial and efficient director of traffic at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street, a few years ago. Many St. Louisans who passed his corner regularly came to know him as "Officer Joe." Five years ago he was made a detective but later, at his own request, he was assigned to uniform duty.

Schneider lives at 5207 West Park avenue. He and Mrs. Schneider have provided a home for many children, at one time sheltering as many as 15.

FOREIGN

POLISH RUNNER
WHO BEAT NURMI WILL BE AMONG VISITING ACES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Some of the leading track athletes of Europe, invited by the Amateur Athletic Union as an advance showing of 1932 Olympic talent, are expected here this winter to add an international glamor to the big indoor events.

Heading the procession in Stanislaw Piekiewicz of Poland, newest member of the "I Beat Nurmi" club, who was not among those receiving invitations from the A. A. U., but who is rated quite a runner. A big-framed middle distance man with plenty of endurance, Stanislaw took the measure of the old Finnish phantom in Stockholm a few weeks ago and, encouraged by his success, resolved to visit the United States. He was due here today.

Italy took so kindly to the A. A. U. suggestion that when one man was invited three accepted. The bid was extended only to Hector Tavernier, half-mile, but apparently through a misunderstanding the Italian Athletic Federation announced that Louis Baccall, mile, and Louis Facelli, 600-meter runner and 400-meter hurdler, would make the trip as well, planning to leave for America in the middle of January and return at the end of March.

After a look at the records which indicate that all three are runners of exceptional ability the A. A. U. was inclined to favor the idea of paying the expenses of Facelli and Baccall as well as Tavernier.

Of the five nations invited, England is the only one so far to refuse. Finland has been asked to send its two young Olympic champions, Larva and Loukola. The Germans invited are Buchner, 400-meter champion of his homeland; Englehardt, 800-meter champion; Muller, half mile and mile; and Storz and Eldacher, sprinters. From France are Seraphin Martin, half-mile star; Ladomergue, 1500-meter runner; and Moulins, quarter-mile, have been extended bids. None of these men has appeared in the United States.

McMillan Throws
Hagen, Who Meets
Jim Londos Here

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—Jim McMillan, former University of Illinois football star, defeated George Hagen of New York in two falls out of three in the main event of a wrestling card here last night. McMillan won the first fall by a flying tackle in one hour and eight minutes. Hagen took the second in seven minutes, three seconds, with a double leg hold, and McMillan won the deciding fall by another flying tackle in 12 minutes.

Hagen is matched with Jim Londos for a finish match as the feature of the wrestling card to be held at the Coliseum Tuesday night. Hagen and Londos were scheduled to meet here several weeks ago, but the match was canceled when Hagen was thrown by Dick Shikat in a New York match. At that time it was claimed Hagen was injured.

Promoter Tom Parks announced today that he has matched Matros Kerlenko, Russian heavyweight wrestler, and Rudy Dusek of Memphis, Tenn., for the second preliminary of his New Coliseum card.

BANQUET FOR CADDIES AT WESTWOOD CLUB
ON SATURDAY NIGHT

The second annual banquet given in honor of the caddies of the Westwood Country Club will take place Saturday night at 7 p. m., under the direction of the officers and members of the Caddy Bogie Club, an organization which has been doing outstanding work in the development of caddies in the city of St. Louis. There are more than 100 caddies who serve the Westwood links and they will be present at the dinner Saturday.

The Caddy Bogie Club will award prizes to caddies for honor service performed during the past year, the first prize being a check for $100, second prize a golf bag and sticks worth $50, third prize $25 suit of clothes, fourth prize a watch, fifth prize, pair of shoes, and sixth prize, a sweater. These valuable awards will be made by the officers of the Caddy Bogie Club. In addition there will be five special prizes and four loving cups awarded for the best scores made during the caddy tournament which was recently held on the links of Westwood.

The principal addresses during the evening will be made by Maurice Well, Edwin Schiele, Ferdinand Bach, Louis Rosen, Richard Eisenman, Jim Cockburn, Sidney Salomon and Dave Sutherland.

In addition to the awarding of the prizes and the banquet, to which all members of Westwood Country Club has been invited, a program of entertainment has been arranged.

Ripon Leads.

Ripon is champion of the Big Four of Wisconsin and tied for second in the Midwest Conference.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Tough, but Not Hopeless

GROVER CLEVELAND ALEXANDER, whose eccentricities of training have caused him to be passed along by both the Cubs and the Cardinals, will at the age of 41 start his comeback, next season, with the club which he once put on the map, 14 years ago, by pitching it into a pennant.

Alexander, by reason of a wonderful pitching arm and a sensitive brain, has been able to carry on as a first-class pitcher far beyond the average usefulness of his tribe. It is not reasonable to hope that he will, at his time of life, regain the form that made him famous. But, if he will take reasonable care of himself, he should be able to give some first class of high order to Burt Shotton's improving Philadelphia club, for two or three years.

The remarkable feature about Alexander's career is that he has had such wonderful pitching but such poor personal control. One naturally associates physical success with a certain amount of self-restraint. Alex needed only one-half of the equation. Now, starting down the sunset slope of his career, it is up to him to show TWO kinds of control.

Up to Alex

IF HE does, there is nothing in baseball that will not be awaiting him. Sam Breadon told the world, in passing Alexander along, that the old boy has only to stiffen up his behavior to be assured of some sort of a place in the baseball scheme for the rest of his days. That's a fair enough proposition and Alexander ought to meet it half way. The baseball world is sympathetic. Very few players who have made history for the game have been allowed to pass out unhonored and unused. The big clubs have taken care of most of their historic characters. Even Lou Criger, a player who will hardly be recalled by fans of the present generation, is still carried on an American League pension list for services he rendered the league in his prime.

Alexander deserves some such recognition, as being one of the four or five truly great pitchers that baseball history has produced.

Not So Good?

FANS will wonder what St. Louis got out of the deal whereby the Cardinals gave not only Alexander but another player and cash to the Philadelphia team, receiving in return Bob McGraw, for whom the Cards will have no use, and Homer Peel, an outfielder that even Philadelphia could pass up.

That can be explained. McGraw will not be kept by the Cardinals, while Peel may be a real aid to Gabby Street's outfit. Peel has been out of the running because some months ago he suffered a broken ankle. In the meanwhile the Philadelphia club picked up two wonderful outfielders in O'Doul and Klein.

Shotton needed relief pitching in fact, pitching of any kind. And so the deal sent the Cardinals an outfielder who, if he carries on as he started to do before his injury, should prove a valuable substitute for Wallie Roettger. It is not telling any secret to disclose that the Cardinal management is not satisfied that Roettger will return to the form he displayed just prior to his injury of two years ago.

Peel is a handy man to have around. As for Alexander, as said before in this column, neither the players nor the club's manager felt that Alex would be of any aid to the team.

Never Can Tell

THE general public had the idea that baseball suffered a setback last season. Yet the American League president told this writer that as a whole the organization had a 400,000 better attendance than in 1928. The National League had revealed that last year was the second best in the history of National League baseball and that had the last half of the year kept pace with the first, all records would have been shattered. That will surprise the most of us. It may be observed that in the National League, Cincinnati was the only club that really had a disappointing year. The Braves, Brooklyn and Philadelphia clubs all improved. The Cards were off to a wonderful start and the other teams would make money in any case.

The average man is apt to recall only the horrible details of a dull finish. Instead of the usual three or four club battles down the stretch, the National League race in the last month was a hum event. That deceived all of us.

The American League race was much the same as in previous years. Philadelphia picked up in attendance but otherwise the show was much the same as formerly—a runaway race.

The league heads point out that both organizations are able to make money under unfavorable conditions, but that records are made only when the last month of the season shows a ding-dong finish.

Not So Hot

IT'S a long cry until the opening of next season. Still, fans are wondering just what hopes they can entertain for next year. Neither local team thus far has done anything to warrant a major improvement in the standing of the club next year. The Cardinals have brought up two or three prospects who may help. The Browns have not yet added the hitting power without which they can not expect to get within telephoto distance of Simmons, Fox, Cochran & Co.

In fact, if the two local clubs renew the race for pennant honors without further additions to the personnel of their clubs, fans might as well expect Al Stillman to knock out Jack Sharkey as to hope for a local team to attain a place in the 1930 sun. The stuff is not there.

If you think differently, match our teams up men for men, the Cardinals with the Cubs and the Browns with the Athletics.

You Answer This One

CLUB OWNERS are cold to such comparisons. They say: "Well, admitting what you say is true, what would you do about it, in our positions?"

So, you answer that one! Ball players cannot be bought ever for big money, at will. Now and then one team with a surplus will part with a star but he expects another one in return, plus cash!

It is impossible to lay down on the line enough money to acquire enough proved players to ASSURE a pennant victory. No matter what you buy, the stars may not be able to deliver the goods.

Clubs frequently pay big sums and get no benefit. Presently some one else acquires for a song the player another club has bought at a high price. Take the case of Lefty O'Doul. He was no good for New York. A short time later he stirred up the world playing for Philadelphia.

Another point: For years the Philadelphia club, notoriously poor, struggled along. Finally Grover Cleveland Alexander reached his peak year and, under Pat Moran in 1915, the club won a pennant.

Then it sold its stars. It slipped to nowhere. It had no money to buy players. But years later it finally got a good trading manager in Burt Shotton. He put over two or three deals at low cost and here the club is today an up-and-coming outfit.

If I had two ace pitchers," Shotton told the writer at Winter Haven last March, "I would win the National League pennant." He made a wonderful showing with NO pitchers.

You Tell 'Em

THEREFORE, when a fan asks an owner why he doesn't pour a lot of money into buying players, the club owner can very well say to the fan: "See what happened to McGraw and Company when they paid out fortunes for players and see what good stars Shotton obtained in Klein, O'Doul, Hurst and others, without any real payment. Why should I sink a fortune when I might pick up a good one for little or nothing?"

The answer is that, in the long run, more good players are bought or traded than are developed or obtained by chance. Eventually the team that spends the most money and has the best connections, keeps on top.

And if you think not, just study the records of the New York teams, the Chicago Nationals and the Philadelphia Athletics, the last of them, Connie Mack's change of heart.

Connie, you know, thought once that ball players could be made. Today he KNOWS that they must be bought.

Big Ten Athletics Cleaner in 1929 Than Ever, Says Staggs,
Here for Y. M. C. A. Talks

By Damon Kerby

Coach Amos Alonzo Staggs of Chicago University, in St. Louis today to fill two speaking engagements, said he believed that there was less subsidizing and proselyting of athletes in the Big Ten conference this year than ever before in its history, regardless of rumors and reports to the contrary. Coach Staggs' statement came on the heels of the announcement that Iowa U. had declared 23 athletes ineligible, growing out of a condition that had caused Iowa to be banished from the Western Conference.

Regarding the Iowa case, Coach Staggs had little to say. On reading the headlines in today's Post-Dispatch, that "21 Iowa athletes, including five football stars, are ineligible," the veteran coach exclaimed, "Great God!" The resolution drafted by the Iowa board of athletic control, inviting the Big Ten to send a committee to Iowa City to review the case in order to find whether "essential justice to these men may not warrant their reinstatement," caused the coach to assert that such a move was "exceedingly odd."

Conference Condemned Thoughtlessly.

"On the whole, the Western Conference was condemned for its stand in banishing Iowa," said Staggs. "Those who have criticized the Big Ten conference officials seem to have overlooked the fact that these men have had years of experience, and have the best interests of the conference at heart," he continued. "We are doing everything in our power to stamp out anything that smacks of professionalism, proselyting and subsidizing of athletes."

Asked what active steps in this direction the Big Ten has taken, Coach Staggs cited the fact that each summer, for the past three years, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the conference, has sent out 7000 letters to high school principals in the mid-west, seeking information or rumormongering regarding proselyting and subsidizing of athletes by Big Ten schools.

"There have been only a comparatively few responses to these letters," Staggs said. "And the past year there were fewer than in the two preceding years."

"When a 'lead' is received in regard to a case that may warrant inspection, the case is turned over to trained investigators working under Griffith. These men are skilled in arriving at the truth of such reports. They have turned up some cases, but on the other hand, they have found that many reports of subsidizing and proselyting have been caused by beautiful boys who liked to have it known that their athletic prowess was worth payment from a Big Ten school—whether or not that was the case," Staggs declared that no underhand methods were used by investigators in running down such cases nor was money paid for information.

Staggs' Big Ten talk was the big thrill of the past week for Staggs, who Princeton last November, he still has a huge stack of congratulatory letters to answer received after the game.

Princeton is on Staggs' schedule again next fall. The game, which includes games with Michigan, Purdue and Minnesota, Staggs today was sending telegrams to the coaches of the Big Ten, asking a game for either Dec. 25 or 26 to fill the spot left vacant when Iowa was banned from the conference.

Staggs addressed a meeting of the Sandwich Forum today at Downtown Y. M. C. A. He was scheduled to talk again at 4 p. m. before a group of H-Y and military men at the Downtown Y.

BARNES ANNOUNCES STABILIZATION BOARD

John G. Lonsdale Among Business Leaders Selected for Executive Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Twenty outstanding business and financial leaders, representing all sections of the United States, were named today by Julius H. Barnes as an Executive Committee to carry on business stabilization endeavors authorized by President Hoover's recent business survey conference. Barnes will act as chairman.

A preliminary study of the many reports submitted to the business survey conference, he asserted, indicated there was nothing to cause "hesitation, but, rather, warrants confidence in the early stabilization of business activities without justifying excessive optimism before the close of the next few months."

"Provision for study in comparison of conditions in the various industries through representative trade organizations," he added, "is being made by the formation of a large committee comprising competent and recognized leadership in the more important business fields. This committee will be announced later."

Barnes, who is chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce, named the following Executive Committee:

Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co.; Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the Finance Corporation, United States Steel Corporation; Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Paul Shoup, president, Southern Pacific Railway; Clarence M. Woolley, chairman American Radiator Corporation; Henry H. Robinson, president Los Angeles First National Trust and Savings Bank; Walter C. Teague, president Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; James Simpson, president, Marshall Field & Co.; C. F. Kelley, president, Anaconda Copper Mining Co.; E. L. Carpenter, president National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Minneapolis; Pierre S. du Pont, Wilmington, Del.; Louis E. Pierson, Irving Trust Co., New York City; George Horace Lorimer, editor, Philadelphia; Walter S. Gilford, president American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Alvan Macaulay, president National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Detroit; John G. Lonsdale, president American Bankers' Association, St. Louis; S. W. Cramer, director Cotton Textile Institute, Cramerton, N. C.; Charles Cheney, president National Industrial Conference Board, Manchester, Conn.; Elias H. Brown, chairman Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago; Harry Chandler, publisher, Los Angeles.

COLONIAL DRUGGIST SOLD OATMEAL AND VARNISH

Old Mirror at Art Museum Discloses Early Counterpart of Sandwich-Selling Drug Store.
The modern drug store, with its miscellaneous stocks which has given rise to such witticisms as the one about the youth who failed to get his pharmacist's license because he flunked in sandwich making, had its counterpart in the early days of the republic. A mirror recently acquired by the Art Museum, made about 1790 by John Elliott Jr., No. 48 South Front street, Philadelphia, bears a label which states that he "hath for sale a general assortment of drugs and medicines."

In smaller type, the label enumerates: "Sage, pearl barley, oatmeal, spices, etc.; looking glasses, with and without frames; window glass of most sizes and large glass for clocks, samplers, etc.; also coach glasses and spectacles; brushes of most sorts, painters' colours, both dry and mixed for use; boiled oil, spirits of turpentine, varnish of divers sorts, putty, painters' tools, candles' hair pencils, leaf gold and silver, black lead and sand crucibles, pearl ash, etc. N. B. Looking glasses new quicksilvered and framed."
The mirror of carved mahogany in Chippendale style, was purchased for the Early American period room under construction at the museum. It is 29 inches high, 17 inches wide and cost $250.

WHEAT IS IRREGULAR
ON LOCAL MARKET

[illegible][illegible][illegible][illegible]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—November copper statistics proved of interest, in so much as they demonstrate that the holding off of large scale buying by consumers without proportionate decrease in production, is resulting in an accumulation of stocks in the hands of producers.

The total 126,915 short tons, an increase of 35,515 tons or 43 per cent since Nov. 1, came to 145,876 tons, apparently 27 per cent of the total output went into inventory accumulations.

RECENT market experiences have emphasized the value and importance of "Income" (interest or dividend return) as distinguished from "Market Quotations."

The investor who has the long-range point of view, and who has purchased securities producing satisfactory income return, should not be disturbed by the recent decline in market quotations.

With income-paying securities, no real profit or loss occurs until the securities are actually disposed of—and the present market is certainly not one in which any investor should consider disposing of sound, income-paying securities.

On the other hand, the present time does offer an unusual opportunity for the investment of money at an abnormally high rate. Quotations may go higher or lower, but any good income-bearing security purchased at the present time will be a satisfactory of lower interest rates. The bonds purchased today should prove an extremely satisfactory investment over a period of years.

A list of 41 Selected Investments may be had on request.

DIRECT RADIO SERVICE BETWEEN PERU AND U. S.

By the Associated Press.
LIMA, Peru, Dec. 12. — Direct radio-telegraph service between Peru and the United States was inaugurated at 11:50 a. m. yesterday through a new wireless station here and another at Sayville, N. Y.

One of the first messages was a greeting to American newspapers from President Leguia. His message said: "I wish to take advantage of the inauguration of the direct radio service from Peru to the United States—a new link between sister nations—to greet the American press through the Associated Press, one of the spiritual bonds already uniting these two countries."

President Leguia also exchanged messages with President Hoover and with John Merrill, president of All-America Cables.

A Piece of Her Mind

By Elsie McCormick

GETTING EVEN

THE idea of revenge as a legitimate and honored human activity was by no means altogether new in the Middle Ages, and is doing very nicely now in many warm and southern climes. The young poet in "The Jew" who was unable to pray until he had wiped out his wrongs with blood probably represented a state of mind very common in medieval times. Yet in our own day and among Anglo-Saxon peoples revenge has lost almost the last rays of respectability. A man who sets out to avenge an injury except through regular court channels receives no bunches of delphiniums from officers of the law. The person who declares openly to his friends that he is out to "get" somebody is finally the window-pane covered with frost work.

Indeed, revenge has come to be considered such an unworthy thing that people engaging in it usually keep their plans and triumphs to themselves. If driven to an overt act they usually confine it merely to a hasty punch on the nose. I understand that all the soldiers who came back from France vowing to murder their top sergeants if it took them 20 years lost interest in their purpose after they put on civilian clothes. It is difficult to say why this is—whether modern men have become what their blood-letting ancestors would call "soft," or whether, almost unknown to us and without any religious revival, a higher set of ethics has somehow come into being. If the latter is true, somebody ought to do a little research on just how and why the new ethical ideas developed. They arrived with so little fanfare that their beginnings are by no means easy to trace.

Possibly there are other explanations. Maybe passionate and sustained hating has gone out of date because modern life leaves people too tired. Great hates, like great loves, demand a surplus of energy. Besides, both the space and tempo in our age cut down the necessary chances to brood. Bitterness is nourished by heavy thoughts, and our up-to-date city apartments furnish no room for solitary knuckle chewing.

In any case, what was once a great human urge has died away to almost nothing, and not even our psychologists have bothered to attend the autopsy.

The Hawaiians had a way of getting revenge that was neat and quite effective. When they wanted to eliminate an enemy they merely put the kahuna on him. This consisted of making a small wax statue of the abhorred one, sticking some pins in it, and then melting it before a fire.

If the person concerned heard about it, terror usually caused his strength to ebb away. Even if nothing happened, the avenger at least had pleasant hopes, and he also escaped the bad chemical effect of pent-up dislike. I have recently tried putting the kahuna on my stockbroker, though without any gratifying results.

Naturally I do not mean to imply that the decline of gory methods has meant the complete disappearance of revenge. Much blood is spilled today by means of the printed page. Now that confession started have become popular, a person with a seething heart need only write something resembling "ex-wife" to achieve a very satisfying retaliation.

It is said that this book is not an autobiography and was not intended for any such fell purpose. Although this is undoubtedly true, the volume gives one an excellent idea of what a girl could achieve if she tried. At least one man will be explaining for years that he didn't really throw his wife through a glass door just a few months before the time she was planning to find a little one in a cabbage.

Literary vengeance is not new. Even stricken Victorian ladies used to publish little pamphlets entitled "A Wife's Wrongs" or "A Chapter of Tears," which, although couched in a flowery language, cause husbands to wriggle miserably in their striped club chairs. Writing about one's intimate life was for a long time considered the special prerogative of women. Of late, however, men have begun dipping their pens in domestic memories and inviting the world into boudoir and dinette. "My Wife" and "Ex-Husband" are already in the market, and many a mate of a witting man is wondering whether more are to follow.

This form of revenge might be scorned by a Corsican or a hardy hater of the middle ages, but it seems to satisfy the milk-bred souls of our climate and day.

Cranberry Sherbet

It is very nice to substitute this attractive sherbet for the cranberry sauce at the formal turkey dinner. Pick over one pound cranberries, wash and cook with one cup of boiling water until tender. Strain, getting two cups of pulp. Soak two tablespoons gelatin in one cup of boiling water for 15 minutes. Add to this two cups sugar and one cup of corn syrup and stir until dissolved over a low fire, then cook until syrupy. Cool and add the cranberry pulp and the juice of two lemons. Freeze and when firm let stand for three hours, well packed. This recipe will make 10 or 12 sherbet glasses.

HEARTS HAVEN

By Mildred Barbour

The Struggle of The Heart and Conscience of Christine Farr

CHAPTERS 21 AND 22

It was with fear and trembling that Christine approached her first night as a dancer in the Paradise restaurant. Her troupe having proved satisfactory—an unsupervised troupe in the empty restaurant in daylight—she was engaged to appear for two shows tonight, one at a late dinner hour and another for the after-theater patron.

Cousin Anna had accepted the news of her engagement with her usual half-amused tolerance. She said:

"Well, even that sort of a job is better than none, Chris. Do your darndest for Washington Heights."

She left off her painting and helped Christine cut away the graceful train of a white satin evening gown heavily incrustated with pearls and brilliant, and Meyer Castlebeer, realizing the freshness and charm of her without the makeup which plastered the faces of his other performers, indulged in her whim.

Rumors sprang up here and there that some well-known society beauty, with a yearning for the stage, had seized upon this way of breaking into the spotlight.

There was nothing remarkable about her dances. She was merely graceful and lithe, but her personality, her youth and prettiness, her freshness and charm were a novelty to such a place. She captivated her audience. Meyer Castlebeer himself added the final touch to one of the most unusual performances given in his restaurant by having a waiter hand up to her when she took her bow, a great armful of red roses. She looked far more like a schoolgirl than a dancer in a cheap cabaret, despite the brevity of her glittering gown.

THIS was the very effect that Meyer Castlebeer wished to produce. Tongues were buzzing, rumors sprang up here and there that some well-known society beauty, with a yearning for the stage, had seized upon this way of breaking into the spotlight. People went away talking and the masculine element was distinctly intrigued and hopeful.

"I guess you'll do all right," Castlebeer told Christine, with evident satisfaction, when she came in from the dingy little room where she dressed with two other girls whose raucous voices stabbed her sensitive soul.

She went out into the streets of Manhattan, thrilling with pride over her accomplishment, meager and sordid as it was. At least it was a first step toward financial independence. The money she earned would be honestly earned, not stolen from a trusting friend.

She hurried along the streets to the subway. It was the first time she had been out alone at night in New York. Several times men passed her, sidling near her and murmuring something, but she only increased her pace.

The subway car was nearly empty when she entered it early in the morning; there were only some sleepy workmen and a few workmen. At one station a noise crowded in evening clothes invaded the car and attracted the weary attention of the work-a-day souls who journeyed home to a well-earned rest. One very drunken gentleman fell asleep and almost lurched into Christine's lap when the train rounded a curve.

She drew away with repugnance. Later, when she left the train at her station, a youth followed her and slipped a confident hand under her arm.

"All alone?" he queried softly. She wrenched her arm free and fled in the direction of Waverly place. She was tired, worn with excitement. She wondered how she could stand night after night of this sort of life—the beer of a cabaret audience, the trip home through the dark streets, the insults that were bound to be her lot. When she had reached the apartment and had let herself in pottily with a latch-key, she went straight to the bedroom and knelt down beside her two children and rested her forehead against the soft little hand of her son.

New courage came to her. It was worth the struggle, worth all the pain and humiliation. She knew a thrill of motherhood such as she had never known before.

"Dear God, help me always to be worthy," she prayed. Then, very silently, she undressed in the darkness and slipped into the hard little bed-drawn that she shared with Cousin Anna.

IN THE weeks that followed, Christine learned a great deal about herself. It was a totally new existence to her who had been sheltered always, who, until she had discovered the faithlessness and perfidy of her husband, had known nothing but sweetness and joyousness and beauty.

Now she saw the other side of the picture. She found herself touching elbows with people in a stratum foreign to her experience. There were three other performers on the entertainment program. One was a girl called Rosa, a scrawny little thing with long, wavy, not exactly curly, but not exactly nice, in a hoarse contralto spoiled by too early usage and excessive indulgence in cigarettes. There was another girl, a sleek Spanish type with a shifty eye, who did Hawaiian dances and put into them more wriggles and squirmings than the Kanakas ever dreamed of.

Rosa was a peppery little soul, but kindly, and, despite the nature of her songs and the suggestive rolling of her eyes, never hesitated about calling down the male patrons who were inclined toward frolicsome. The other girl, however, pretending a rather ridiculous haughtiness and culture, was given to meeting many of her spectators around the corner from the restaurant after the act was finished.

She disliked Christine intensely and showed her animosity, but Rosa, the little roughneck, was very kind and friendly.

The third of the quartet of performers was a man who gave humorous monologues and impersonations. He had very blond hair that stood up stiffly, like the bristles of a shaving-brush, curiously black brows, and ears that protruded ludicrously from the sides of his head. There was a hungry air about him, and, for all his clown-like ability to make his audience laugh, he showed himself in off-guard moments to be a sad and unhappy soul. One night, in a burst of confidence, he told Christine that he had a tubercular wife and two children whom he was trying to support on his meager $15 a week.

One night a man, red-faced, pompous, prosperous, who was a regular patron, invariably occupying a table close to the dancing-floor, became insistent in his demands for her company.

Christine hesitated, torn between reluctance and fear that she might incur the displeasure of the proprietor by offending a patron who spent so lavishly, but Meyer Castlebeer settled the question. He walked over to the guest's table and said a few words in a low tone. As a result, the man reddened that even, and angry, rose unsteadily and left the restaurant. Christine, at a reassuring nod from Castlebeer, retired to the dingy dressing-room.

Rosa was there smoking a cigarette; she had witnessed the little scene from behind the curtain that hung in the doorway, and she said to Christine, with awe in her wise, old-young eyes:

"The boss must be sweet on you! I never saw him lose a customer before. Just to save a girl from dancing with a drunk."

When Christine had done her final number and was, dressed again for the street, she left the restaurant only to find Meyer Castlebeer waiting with a cab, the door of which stood ajar.

"Get in," he commanded. "I'm going to drive you home. Did that fellow bother you?"

"Not much," answered Christine. "I'm sorry there was any trouble. It's too bad, if you lost a good customer."

"That's neither here nor there," said Castlebeer. He cleared his throat, and then, rather vaguely, said: "See here, Christine, you might as well know the truth. I am awfully gone on you. I never knew a girl just like you, and you certainly made a hit with me. I'd like to marry you, if it's all the same to you. Of course, I ain't your class. I can see that with half an eye. I don't know what your class is, but I know you, but I know you must be pretty much up against it, girlie, or you wouldn't be dancing in my place. I'm willing to take you, I'll promise to be good to you, and I've got a pretty swell business—at least, it will buy you all the things you want."

Christine found tears suddenly welling to her eyes at the candor and simplicity of the big, uncoiled man. She laid a hand on his and said:

"Oh, I'm sorry; I should have told you. I am married. I don't live with my husband, but I shall never be divorced. I have two little children that I am trying to support here in New York. It isn't easy."

There was a long silence while the cab rattled through the dark streets. Then Castlebeer said, in an obviously constrained voice:

"You're all right, girlie. Forget what I just said. It ain't make any difference in the business end of it, but I can't help the way I feel, and, if you ever get free and find yourself looking around for a good husband, you'll know right where to come."

Daily Story FOR CHILDREN

Peggy and Santa.

"HELLO, Santa Claus," Peggy said. "Hello, Santa Claus," said John.

"Visitors," called Santa Claus. "It seems to me I have seen you both. Yes, to be sure! Don't you live in a house with a garden at the back and a garage with a top part where you play on rainy days? And you have a big chimney in your house, too. Very comfortable—that chimney. I've always appreciated it."

"That's the house," cried Peggy. "Oh, I'm so glad you know me!"

"I recognized you by your voice," Santa Claus said. "I've heard the messages you've sent me up your chimney. Then, I know I'll find you when you look out even if I always did see you with your eyes shut, and where there was not very much light."

"Now, each of you come and pick something from my workshop and I'll bring it to you Christmas eve."

Peggy and John could hardly stand the excitement. "She had never seen anything like the workshop in all her life. There were many toys that were finished, many half-finished and many just started."

She chose a white toy rabbit for a present and John chose an Indian suit. Then they began to see other things they liked very much.

"Take up a list and leave it by your chimney," I'll get it," Santa said.

The Little Black Clock had turned the time around so it was just about the present time—and they must leave in a very little while.

"Oh, dear," Peggy said. "I had a question I wanted to ask."

"I've time to hear it," was Santa's pleasant reply.

A Word of Wisdom

If the man you are going to marry has never "pottered" around a house and been one to mend and fix things, you had better become familiar with a few ordinary tools that are necessary to a home, because you will find it much easier to do little things yourself than to nag at hubby to do them.

Prince Asks Charity Gifts for Wedding

RINCE HUBERT, heir to the Italian throne, wants wedding presents—lots of them—on the occasion of his forthcoming marriage to Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium; but only for other people.

Through his principal aide-de-camp, the future monarch has let it be known that he and his bride wish nothing for themselves. Those who really desire to please them may donate good round sums to charity or education.

The Prince particularly commends the foundation of scholarships for poor students, as a worthy manner of doing his wedding.

Cooking the Turnip

TURNIPS are a favorite winter vegetable, but they are usually spoiled by overcooking. This makes them dark colored and strong flavored. The summer turnip will cook in from 30 to 40 minutes, but the winter turnip requires from 45 to 60 minutes and if fall grown they may have to be cooked one and a half hours.

Turnips may be sliced, diced, chopped, quartered or cooked whole. They may be creamed or mashed and buttered and many housewives prefer to mash 'em with the potatoes. They may be served as croquettes or hash and they are used in meat soups and in soups. They are delicious stewed in milk thickened with butter and flour, seasoned with salt and pepper and served with the sauce.

No More Oily Skin

Makes old-looking, poor-color skin youthfully clear—corrects away enlarged pores—corrects oily skin, heals irritations. Poor-color complexion, oily skin and blemishes are due to acid-skin impurities. And, everybody knows there is nothing like magnesia to neutralize acid. So, when the face is massaged with creamed magnesia the skin throws off even the most deep-set pore impurities. It purifies the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. Purifying the skin rejuvenates the complexion so quickly that any face looks years younger in five minutes. It changes old looking, poor-color skin to youthful clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. It's as fragrant; it reduces enlarged pores to the finest textures and smooths out the tell-tale lines of age.

It removes make-up better than any soap or cleansing cream. And, because it's so mild, it's a blessing for fine, sensitive skin, that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Doctors urge their wives, To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. When you use it you will at once see why druggists find it hard to get enough to supply the tremendous demand.

GUARANTEE It's impossible for Denton's Facial Magnesia not to improve your complexion. But, should it fail to do so, even after the very first application, your dealer is requested to refund your money at once without question.

DENTON'S CREAMED Facial Magnesia

NOTE: These facts about the amazing skin-beautifying virtues of magnesia were learned from the experience of the first hundred thousand women who bought it. Because of its superior skin-beautifying qualities, magnesia is rapidly replacing the use of soap and cleansing cream with millions of women who give intelligent care to their complexion.

Behind the Scenes

The Latest News and Gossip of the Stars Appears in the Daily Magazine of the Post-Dispatch on Thursday and in the Saturday Evening Post

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12. (AP)—The picture player's studio is now finding a new way to make money in film makeup. Natural colored productions are responsible for a new line of makeup.

In preparing for pictures filmed in Technicolor, makeup artists are using the principles of color to correct street makeup. Something they can't do for black and white productions. Except for lips, never has been so much makeup as now. The reason for this is that it does not photograph as it is. The colors are photographed in black and white. The makeup is then corrected to match the color of the film. The makeup is then corrected to match the color of the film. The makeup is then corrected to match the color of the film.

On the other hand, the Technicolor camera photographs facial makeup as it appears to the eye. Consequently, the makeup must come into its own for this type of production. There are a few standard grease paints, powders and rouges which have come to be used generally by Technicolor in hue to suit individual complexions, as the blonde requires a lighter makeup than the brunette.

Jeanette MacDonald, for example, used one of the lightest grease paints and rouges in her role in Paramount's "The Vagabond King." She is a decided blonde with a fair skin, blue eyes and red hair. Lillian Roth, who has used a makeup several shades darker.

Two newly-developed Technicolor cosmetics for exceptionally swarthy types were used on the players portraying the Parisian vagabond rabble. In making up for "The Vagabond King," Miss MacDonald first applied a thin coating of grease paint as a base. Her method was to squeeze a quarter-of-an-inch of the grease from the tube into the palm of her hand. With the fingers of the other hand, she dabbed the grease gently on her face. She then smoothed it out with both hands until the full surface was evenly coated.

The next step was the dashing of cold water on the face. The water clinging to the grease paint was then wiped off with the hands. The paint is thus "set."

She then deftly applied an eye liner to the upper lids and next the lashes, blending upward toward the eye. After that, she applied an under cheek rouge. A dark lip rouge is used for this. Application of powder was the next preparation. This she did with a puff, starting under the chin and beating the powder into the creases of the face. It is essential not to rub the powder on the face.

Her next step was to brush off all excess powder with a powder brush. She lightly rouged her lips, penciled her eyebrows over slightly and added just a trace of bluish under her lower lip, blending to the lashes. A touch of mascara to the lashes and everything was done except the application of dry rouge to the cheeks. When this was done, she was ready to prepare for the bridge party, the opera, or the street.

Men follow the same general procedure in making up for only productions except that they only the mascara for the eye lashes and in general use rouge more sparingly. Dennis King, who has played swarthy roles in "The Vagabond King" is blonde and required very light makeup for Technicolor. He used rouge only sufficiently to bring out the natural flesh tint of his face.

AND the references about to Lillian Roth brings to mind the fact that a mother's suppression of her own feelings has been a long time in Hollywood. It is of its most grinning young actors.

Lillian Roth, 13-year-old "brat," was brought from Broadway to the film city a few months ago by Paramount.

Behind her success is a story of a mother's determination. Roth always had dreamed of stardom. Her mother, Lillian, was trained from the cradle for a theatrical career. When she was two years old she could dance, sing and act. "Piccadilly" At four she was a long-haired girl in one of New York's leading schools of the drama. The dance. A year later she was playing child parts in motion pictures at the Fort Lee, N. J. studio. When she was six she was ber of Important Issues

Register Large Gains.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Bullish forces won a see-saw battle with "bears" on the New York Stock Exchange today in which any of the active stocks fluctuated widely within a range of 10 points. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains, ranging from 1 to 5 points in the leaders, and much higher in a few specialties, as well as an assortment net declines.

Control Is Sought!
The wild gyrations apparently reflected the struggle for control of the price movement between speculative forces, and was not directly associated with any development in the day's news.
However, the increase in Federal reserve brokers' loans, additional signs of ease in Europe and publication of cement statistics tended to keep investment buying in check, and discouraged by extensive public participation in the market.

Best Prices Late.
As a rule, the best prices of the day were made in the last hour of trading. U. S. Steel common closed with a net gain of 5 1/2 points at 172 after touching 164 1/2 in the morning break. Auburn Auto closed with a net gain of 23 points at 100, after touching 77.

Rails were heavily bought in the late trading. There was rumor that the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for a consolidation of Eastern Railroads would be made public over the week end. Missouri Pacific, "Katy" common, leading and Union Pacific all closed with a net gain of 3 1/2 points.
Fox Film was heavy all day, closing 5 1/2 points lower at 37 1/2 after having touched a new low record for the year at 34.

Federal Reserve Showing.
The weekly Federal Reserve statements indicated a determined move on the part of that institution to put credit into the market.
In the final analysis the total of new credit outstanding was actually cut a trifle, but this reflected the sharp reduction in redemptions throughout the system.
Monetary to about $105,000,000, equivalent to about $4,000,000 more than the total increase of some $97,000,000 indicated in holdings of open market bills and Government securities.

Commodities Mixed.
Commodity markets were mixed.
Wheat dropped about 1 1/2 cents a bushel and corn yielded fractionally.
Cotton closed slightly higher.
Foreign exchanges moved within a narrow and irregular limit.
Sterling Cables holding fairly steady just above $4.85.
